Budget Cuts Place Programs in Danger

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State officials took a look at Senate Appropriation Committee cuts today and predicted grim futures for many state programs.

The Division of Health said public health would be in jeopardy.

The Conservation Commission said federal funds would be lost.

The Department of Agriculture threatened to close down the grain warehouse and other programs.

And the Department of Revenue may pull sales tax auditors and gasoline pump checkers off the job to take pictures from new plastic drivers' licenses.

Dr. Herbert R. Domke, state health director, said $250,000 the Senate cut from its 1972-73 budget for state assistance to city and county public health agencies is needed just to keep service at the present level.

He predicted personnel hired last month will have to be fired and said unless restorations are made "cutbacks in Missouri's public health program will be necessary after July 1."

Carl R. Noren, Conservation Department director, said the state would gain nothing in lopping off nearly $3 million from his department's budget. The funds are already earmarked for conservation and can be used for nothing else.

"But making cuts in commission funds won't benefit the state budget picture at all," Noren said. "The state can do nothing but lose if these funds are not restored."

He said conservation and recreation programs would have to be reduced if the cuts stand.

The Department of revenue is worried about implementing a 1971 law calling for new plastic, color-photo drivers' licenses. The department had requested an emergency appropriation to get ready for the July 1 effective date of the new law.

"The Senate gave me the requested desks, typewriters, adding machines and insert machine in next year's budget," Schaffner said, "but they gave me no people, no salaries and no training."

Schaffner said the only way he could see getting the job done is to take field personnel—such as auditors of sales tax collection and gasoline pump checkers—off their jobs and put them on drivers' license camera assignments.

Agriculture Commissioner Dexter D. Davis said his department also needs the emergency money which the Senate has indicated it will not approve to pay for programs the rest of this fiscal year.

S. Viet Forces Are Forced Off 2 Bases

SAIGON (AP) — A swelling North Vietnamese onslaught in the far north drove South Vietnamese from two more bases today in the heaviest fighting there in four years.

Field reports said a third base also may have been abandoned. One base was given up Thursday in the first day of enemy attacks on bases along the demilitarized zone.

The air war also heated up as a North Vietnamese MIG21 was shot down and the United States lost its second computerized four-engine gunship in two days and one of the Air Force's biggest rescue helicopters.

New U.S. air raids were launched inside North Vietnam after a nearly two-week lull and American jets attacked enemy gun positions in the southern half of the DMZ.

Hundreds of South Vietnamese troops and some American forces, at the option of local field commanders, were ordered on heightened alert.

U.S. and South Vietnamese field commanders in the 3rd Military Region that includes Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces increased the state of readiness for all of their troops.

The U.S. headquarters for Saigon ordered all Americans off the streets of the capital. But an hour later the headquarters of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the top commander, rescinded that directive.

In the central highlands, six government bases were shelled from dawn to dusk Friday, and one of them was hit with 100 mortar rounds. One ground attack was reported.

North Vietnamese troops battled government forces and armored columns near Dong Ha, nine miles south of the DMZ, and farther west near Camp Carroll.

Committee's Action Blasted By Hearnese

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes hit out today at Senate Appropriations Committee action in cutting more than $30 million from his recommended 1972-73 budget.

He said it was "completely unfair and unrealistic" for the committee to cut increased state aid to schools from $35 million—the amount called for by law—down to $20 million.

"Most of Missouri's public schools have drawn their new budgets and set their tax levies in accordance with the promise of another $35 million in state aid," Hearnes said.

"The school elections to approve those local tax levies are scheduled in many areas for next Tuesday, April 4. It is too late for the public schools to change their budgets and their tax levies, and it is completely unfair of the senate appropriations committee to make these unwarranted cuts in funds for public education."

State Comptroller John C. Vaughn noted the Senate committee based its actions on a prediction that the state will collect only $739,149,882 in general revenue this fiscal year ending June 30.

Vaughn's estimate was $750.7 million and he said there is a high probability collections will exceed his forecast instead of falling short.

For the new fiscal year starting July 1, Vaughn estimated collections would increase by $53.3 million for a total of $804 million. That would represent a growth rate of 7.1 per cent.

In contrast, the Senate committee estimated collections would grow by $50.8 million, or 6.9 per cent, for a total of $789,945,804.

"At a time when we are trying to make the best use possible of our tax dollars," the governor said, "I hope the Senate will take one very important factor into consideration as it debates this committee proposal.

"If a budget is adopted according to the administration's estimates of income, and those estimates should prove to be too high, I am directed by the Constitution to withhold funds in order that the state agencies cannot spend more money than we collect.

"But if the Senate Appropriations Committee estimates are used for a budget, and then we collect more than they have appropriated, there is no legal way to use that additional money in the areas where it is badly needed."

"By approving the full $35 million increase for public schools, that amount can be paid if revenue collections equal our estimates. But if the Senate committee recommendation of only $20 million is adopted, then the schools cannot receive the full amount they were promised—no matter how much money the state collects."

Vaughn said many of the cuts would seriously affect state services.

Fatal Mishap Results In Damage Suit

A $50,000, one-count damage suit was filed in Pettis County Circuit Court Thursday, by the parents of Ronald C. Gulick, Belvedere, Ill., who was killed in a car-truck accident at the intersection of West Main Street and Highway 50, March 1, 1971.

Both Gulick and a passenger in his car, Miss Nancy Jean Barrett, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., were killed when his 1966 Volkswagen was struck in the left side by a 1968 Ford pick-up truck, driven by William Howard Blakely, 53, LaMonte.

According to the Highway Patrol, the Volkswagen was eastbound on Highway 50 when Blakely's westbound pick-up, loaded with hogs, collided with it.

Blakely was later fined $150 in Magistrate Court on three charges of careless and imprudent driving, which he appealed on May 13, 1971.

On Oct. 12, 1971, Blakely was fined $250 by Pettis County Circuit Judge Frank Meyer on the appealed case. The prosecutor in the case, Don Barnes, had asked for the maximum penalty of $500.

In the damage suit petition, Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Gulick allege that Blakely was driving at a high rate of speed, did not maintain a proper lookout for traffic conditions, did not yield the right of way and ran a stop sign.

Standing serene and beautiful in front of the stained glass windows of First Christian Church, Miss Becky Campbell takes a moment to reflect on the meaning of Easter during Holy Week. The Easter lilies Becky holds

On Tax Question

Wallace: 'I Was First'

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, contending he talked tax reform long before his opponents in next Tuesday's Wisconsin Democratic primary, says a big vote for him "is going to make them shuffle around down in Washington and come up to solve this issue" in 1972.

"I raised the issue first," the Alabama governor told 600 cheering supporters at a rally on Milwaukee's South Side Thursday night. "Then all the rest of them are running all over themselves wanting to reduce your taxes. They ought to reduce them because they put them on there."

Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, George McGovern and Edmund S. Muskie, rated the top Democratic presidential contenders here along with Wallace, have put considerable stress on the tax issue in state with one of the nation's highest per-person tax loads.

The candidates planned light schedules today as their general agreement on major issues gave way to stepped-up criticism of one another's records in the last days of the Wisconsin campaign.

Only Humphrey shied away from criticizing his rivals Thursday, charging at a farm-labor rally in suburban West Bend that President Nixon and Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz "have given us recession and high unemployment and most of the most critical farm price situation since the Great Depression."

About 20 welfare rights demonstrators trailed the Minnesota senator part of the day, protesting what they said was his support of the Nixon administration's welfare reform program.

Muskie, stumping his way north to Milwaukee through industrial Kenosha, Racine and Cudahy, challenged McGovern's claim that he was "right from the start" on the Vietnam war and other issues.

Shaking hands with workers in a bitterly cold wind outside a Racine tractor plant, Muskie exchanged greetings in Polish with several workers. Later, he gave a Polish greeting to an enthusiastic group of supporters at a rally in Cudahy.

McGovern, campaigning in Sheboygan, brushed aside the appeal by Republican Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California for GOP crossovers to aid Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York. He noted the two "are both lifelong Republicans."

McCloskey has abandoned his race against Nixon.

Then, McGovern went on to Milwaukee where he told 1,000 cheering supporters "I'm confident we're going to win and we're going to win all the way" in Tuesday's voting.

Lindsay, who switched to the Democrats last August, received McCloskey's endorsement—for Wisconsin only—on grounds he alone was free of the "blemish" of backing the Tonkin Gulf resolution, which President Lyndon B. Johnson used as the basis for heavy U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

Responding to questions, the mayor said, "I don't recall the Gulf of Tonkin resolution when I was in the House." But House Foreign Affairs Committee records showed Lindsay had voted for it in 1964.

Second Ward Rally For City Democrats

A second ward Democratic meeting was held in the Whittier School auditorium, Thursday night, to drum up support in the ward for City Council candidate Robert Wells.

Nearly 60 persons attended the 7:30 p.m. meeting, presided over by Chuck Stockstill, Democratic city chairman, and which featured impromptu addresses by many city and county office seekers and State

Rep. Joe Rains. Many of those speaking on behalf of Wells made references to his past experience, noting that he served two terms on the City Council in the 1960s.

Wells spoke only briefly, thanking the third ward Democratic party workers and voters for their part in advancing him through the primary elections and asked for their continued support in Tuesday's general election.

The keynote speech of the evening was delivered by Palmer Nichols, who denounced the local newspaper ads of Republican Councilman Jane Gwinn, also of the Third Ward, which Nichols alleged claim credit for the Centennial Park swimming pool.

Nichols said that nearly 35 years ago the Democratic platform called for a swimming pool to be constructed on the east side of the city, in the old Washington Park at what is now the Kroger Family Center. He also said that it was Wells who presented a petition for Democratic women party workers of the Third Ward to the City Council in the spring of 1970, calling for the building of a pool at the Centennial Park site.

Another topic Nichols discussed dealt with the recreation program and a proposed city recreation director, a concept defeated by the council last year because of a stated lack of funds. The plan is due for reconsideration in this year's budget sessions.

Nichols supported the proposal and said he felt it is needed, especially for the older people of Sedalia. He called on one of the

The Fluoride Issue—Conclusion

Children, Adults Can Benefit

By BOB SHEUE
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Have you ever had a drink of water in LaMonte, Hughesville, Houstonia, Whiteman AFB, Deepwater, Columbia or Concordia? If you have, you've exposed yourself to what some persons claim is a crippling or fatal poison — naturally fluoridated water.

If fluoridated water is so harmful, you might ask, why is it that residents of these area cities are not experiencing the drastic side-effects that anti-fluoridationists claim go hand-in-hand with consumption of fluoridated water?

Or to pose another question, if fluoridation is so bad, why haven't citizens of these area communities petitioned to rid their water supplies of the chemical?

Dr. Leonard Shackles, president of the Sedalia Dental Society, believes there is only one logical answer to both questions. Put simply, the answer would be that fluoridation, either natural or introduced by controlled, mechanical methods, is not the harmful scourge some people would like the public to believe.

Dr. Shackles goes one step further in claiming that rather than being a detriment to physical well-being, fluoridation is an effective decay-preventive measure to help insure good dental health.

"Supplying a growing tooth with fluoride will create a stronger tooth crystal," Dr. Shackles said. "Through extended, controlled application, fluoride reacts to form a harder covering, which in turn helps prevent decay.

"Many people believe fluoride can effectively be coated on," Dr. Shackles continued, "but this is not true. That procedure has basically the same effect as painting a house and then washing it before the paint dries."

Like many in his profession, Dr. Shackles cannot understand the reasoning of those opposed to fluoridation.

"We have adopted national programs to immunize the public against various diseases and we accept pasteurization of milk. Why is it that fluoridation becomes so involved with politics? I really don't understand it," he said.

Sunrise Services Will Celebrate Resurrection

All four gospel accounts of the resurrection emphasize that Mary Magdalene and others went to the Jesus' tomb very early in the morning. According to Matthew, it was "as it began to dawn." Mark and Luke record it as "very early in the morning," while John reports that it was "early, when it was yet dark."

Because of this, Christians seem to attach a special significance to sunrise service on Easter day.

Several local churches have scheduled Easter observance at the dawn of the day. Those who plan on worshipping in the outdoors — in parks, playgrounds and at lakeside — are fervently hoping for fair weather.

The following are among the churches that have scheduled sunrise services:

provided by the youth choir of Parkview Christian Church under the direction of Mrs. Clifford Delcourt, 1800 South Prospect.

Refreshments will be served at the church following the service. In case of inclement weather the service will be held in the church.

Sunday school and worship services will be held later in the day as on any other Sunday.

Our Saviour

The Rev. Roger Sonnenberg, pastor, will preach in the sunrise service at Our Saviour Lutheran Church, 3700 West Broadway.

The service will begin at 6:30 a.m. Breakfast will be served after the service.

Methodist Churches

The four United Methodist Churches of Sedalia will hold a combined sunrise service at 6:30 a.m. Sunday in the shelter house in Centennial Park. The Rev. Mark Conard will lead the service, assisted by young people.

In case of bad weather, the service will be held at Epworth United Methodist Church, 1124 East Broadway.

Jones Temple

At 6 a.m. Sunday morning, members of Jones Holy Temple (Church of God in Christ), 318 West Morgan, will meet for an Easter sunrise service.

Trinity Lutheran

An Easter sunrise Matins will be held at Trinity Lutheran Church, 3201 Southwest Blvd. It will begin at 6:45 a.m. The Rev. Gregory Hibbard, pastor, will officiate. Breakfast will be served at 7:45 a.m.

Other Sunday services will be held later as usual.

At Hughesville

Bethel Methodist Church, Hughesville, will hold an Easter service at 7 a.m., followed by a breakfast.

RLDS

At the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Ninth and Montgomery, sunrise service will commence at 6:30 a.m., holy communion at 7 a.m., breakfast at 8 a.m., morning devotions at 9:45 a.m., and church school at 10 a.m.

Knob Noster

The Ministerial Alliance of Knob Noster will hold a community sunrise service at 6 a.m. Easter Sunday at the Knob Noster High School football stadium.

The Rev. Dave Kjos, pastor of the Assembly of God Church, will be the speaker. Other ministers of Knob Noster and the Whiteman A.F.B. will conduct the worship service.

In case of inclement weather the service will be held at the United Methodist Church.

Coffee and doughnuts will be served after the service at the United Methodist Church.

The Ministers Alliance invites the public to attend the service.

New Bethel

Members of New Bethel United Methodist Church, South Highway 65, will hold their first sunrise service this Sunday. It will be at 7 a.m. The Rev. Edward Neimeyer, district superintendent, will be the speaker.

Breakfast will be served at 8 a.m.

The church will not hold Sunday school and the regular worship service Sunday.

Maplewood

An outdoor service will be held at 6 a.m. Easter Sunday on the island in Monsees Lake near Maplewood Church. The lake is on State Road O, north of East Highway 50. The Rev. James Kane, pastor, will preach on the subject, "The Time, The Terrain, The Transition."

It will be the second sunrise service on the island sponsored by Maplewood Church.

Special music will be

To Sing Of Easter Joy

Several area churches have planned special music programs and cantatas in observance of Easter. The following are some of them:

First Baptist: The sanctuary choir of First Baptist Church, Sixth and Lamine, will present a cantata, "Golgotha," with words and music by Jeana and Robert Graham. It will be held at 7:10 p.m. Sunday.

Raymond Hall will direct the 40-voice choir.

Soloists will be Mrs. Richard Parker, Mrs. Fred Biggs, Mrs. Chester Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Stanley Fisher, Joe Petteway and Mrs. Bill McLaughlin.

John Rufenacht will be the narrator. The Rev. George T. Miller is the pastor of the church.

Parkview Christian: Mrs. Max Fields will direct the choir of Parkview Christian Church in a cantata, "Behold Your King," by John W. Peterson. The cantata will be at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the church, 1405 East 16th.

Ray Gipson is the minister of the church.

East Sedalia: The choirs of East Sedalia Baptist Church, 1019 East Fifth, will present John W. Peterson's cantata, "Hallelujah! What A Saviour," during the Sunday evening service which begins at 7:30. Miss June DeWitt will direct the singing.

Hughesville: Hughesville Baptist Church will present its Easter cantata at 10:45 a.m. Sunday. During the 11:30 a.m. worship service, the guest speaker will be Wayne Isgriggs, Route 2. Sunday school will be at 9:45 a.m.

Church News

Wesley United Methodist Church will hold two Easter services at 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. The chancel and youth choirs will sing anthems. Dr. Thomas D. Hall, pastor, will bring the messages.

Cumberland Presbyterian Church will have special music and communion service Sunday morning. The Rev. John Steele, pastor, will preach on "Resurrection."

The Easter sermon topic of the Rev. Eugene Trice, pastor of Epworth United Methodist Church, will be "The Christ of the Way." The choir will present Easter music.

Holy communion will be observed during the 8 a.m. Sunday Easter service at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Sweet Springs. Pastor Ross E. Haupt will preach on the subject, "If We Really Believed," with Mark 16:1-7 as the text.

A second Easter service will be held at 10:30 a.m.

Jammie Paden, minister of Stewart Avenue Church of Christ, will preach Sunday morning on the subject, "Shall Your Brethren Go To War While You Sit Here?" Sunday evening he will bring a message on the subject, "I Will...Before I Die."

Gladys Gatewood, 605 North Lamine, will be the speaker at a YWCC Easter service at 3 p.m. Sunday at Jones Holy Temple (Church of God in Christ).

Easter worship at Broadway Presbyterian Church will be centered on the sermon theme, "From Sorrow To Joy." The Rev. William Seath, Eldon, a retired minister, will preach. Dr. Seath was director of the Chicago Christian Industrial League and a vice-chairman of the Mayor's Commission on Rehabilitation of Persons.

The junior choir will sing "The Lamb" by Davis and the chancel choir will render "Glory To God" by Bach-Christiansen.

The Rev. Charles Hendrickson will preach on "The Season of Wonder" Easter morning at Calvary Baptist Church. Special music will include "Fill My Cup, Lord" by the choir, a duet and a solo.

"Which Way Calvary Baptist Church?" will be the topic of Mr. Hendrickson's Sunday evening message.

At Maplewood Church Sunday morning, the Rev. James Kane, pastor, will bring a message on the subject, "Life Eternally Yours."

During the Sunday evening communion service, P. C. Thomas, associate pastor, will bring a message on the subject, "The Upper Room Revisited."

Easter services will be held at 8 a.m. and 10:10 a.m. Sunday at First Christian Church. The Rev. Robert Magee, minister, will preach on the subject, "He is Risen."

Our Saviour Lutheran Church will hold a communion service at 9 a.m. Sunday.

The Lincoln Christian College Chorale, Lincoln, Ill., will present a concert of Easter music at 9:45 a.m. Sunday at Parkview Christian Church.

East Sedalia Baptist Church will hold Easter services at 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. The Rev. Medford E. Speaker, pastor, will preach on "The Temple of Christ's Body." The lesson will be from John 2:18-22.

'Old Fashioned' Revival Set At Mt. Herman

An old-fashioned revival will be held April 3-9 at Mt. Herman Baptist Church.

Al Hodges, Jonesboro, Ark., will be the evangelist. Neal Helmbacher from Southwest Baptist College, Bolivar, will direct the music.

There will be an old-fashioned gospel singing from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. on April 9.

The Rev. Dennis J. Davis is the pastor.

At First Methodist

The Kansas Wesleyan Philharmonic Choir will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the First United Methodist Church, Fourth and Osage. William Anderson of Kansas Wesleyan University will direct the 47-voice choir which is currently on a seven-day tour of five states. The choir consists of students from seven states, many of whom are majoring in subjects other than music. The Rev. Denis R. Craft, pastor of the host church, said the public is invited to the concert. The choir will also sing at the Monday noon meeting of the Sedalia Rotary Club at Bothwell Hotel.

Deadline For CWU Membership Drive

The sustaining membership drive of Church Women United of Sedalia will close April 5, according to Mrs. James Eschbacher, president.

To help sustain the work of this organization interested women are asked to supply two dollars, she said.

Besides assisting the work of CWU, a sustaining member also receives a quarterly local newsletter and a CWU magazine from the state organization.

Interested persons are asked to contact Mrs. Carl Zimmerschied, 1004 Leone.

Revival Services Through Sunday

Revival services will continue through Easter Sunday at the Pentecostal Church of God, 24th and Ohio.

The Rev. J. R. Robertson, Springfield, is the evangelist. He is a noted camp meeting and convention speaker.

Friday Services

The following churches have announced Good Friday services:

Our Saviour Lutheran Church, 7:30 p.m.

Bethel Methodist Church, Hughesville, 7:30 p.m. communion service.

Easter Car Lift

Sedalia's Moose Lodge 1494 will sponsor an Easter car lift to church and home for the benefit of those who do not have transportation.

Those in need of free transportation are asked to call 826-9629 or 826-4505.

Tom McNally, 1016 South Harrison, is the chairman for the car lift committee.

Morning Devotions

The speaker for the coming week on KDRO's "Morning Devotions" program will be the Rev. Marvin Albright, pastor of United Church of Christ.

The program can be heard at 8:45 a.m. each weekday on 1490 on the AM dial.

REDUCE SEMINARIES

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Higher quality but less quantity is the gist of an educational recommendation to the United Methodist Church's governing general conference in April. It would reduce the church's number of seminaries from 14 to 11.

Minister Is Praised In Ellington Concert

NEW YORK (AP) — When Duke Ellington wrote his "New Orleans Suite," he included a musical portrait of Louis Armstrong. When he wrote his second "Sacred Concert," he also put in a musical portrait he thought belonged there, called "The Shepherd Who Watches over the Night Flock."

The person portrayed is the Rev. John Garcia Gensel, 54, New York's only Protestant jazz clergyman. He is attached to the Board of American Missions of the Lutheran Church in America and St. Peter's Lutheran Church in midtown Manhattan.

When putting their personalities as well as their music on the line to be accepted or rejected every time they play, and that can cause problems.

"A jazz musician can become isolated," the Rev. Mr. Gensel adds, "but most of them are not. I think they live closer to the pulse of life than most people. Their music deals with the typical emotions of life. I think there is a tendency for them to dwell in the realm of the unseen. Many of them were writing religious music before I ever got into this."

The Rev. Mr. Gensel's back-

His denomination eventually authorized his ministry to the jazz community. "In 1960 they told me to spend half of my time on this night ministry, and by 1965 I was so involved they gave me a full-time call as pastor to the jazz community."

The first thing he did in 1965 that he hadn't been doing before was to start jazz vespers at 5 p.m. every Sunday at St. Peter's Lutheran Church, where he had been assigned. These have continued every Sunday since, plus three regular Sunday services and Thursday prayer sessions.

To his taste, "Jazz is the best type of music to worship the Lord. For sadness you can't get anything better than the blues, and for gladness you can't get anything better than gospel. It has the depth and totality of life. It speaks to the core of what we're all about."

The Rev. Mr. Gensel usually pays the musicians who perform at the Sunday vespers, $20 to sidemen and $30 to leaders, but funds for it have shrunk.

To help replenish them, Duke Ellington is giving the first benefit concert for the jazz vespers, performing Ellington's second "Sacred Concert" on Sunday, April 9, in St. Peter's Lutheran church. Tickets are $10 each.

ground includes both rather typical Lutheran congregations in Mansfield, Ohio, and New York and an unusual church-on-wheels ministry to trailer courts when a huge atomic energy plant was being built at Piketon, Ohio. He didn't set out to become a jazz minister.

But he liked jazz, so, while a pastor at Advent Lutheran church in New York, he took a college evening course to learn more about it. The course included field trips to jazz spots. One night, a musician, seeing his clerical collar, asked for counseling. Soon such requests were frequent.

"You're not dealing with people who are all Lutherans. You need to forget denominational lines. It doesn't matter if a musician is black, white, Jew, Gentile, Muslim—I believe God loves him. You need to be more open, more ecumenical. You need a wider perspective and to adjust to a broader aspect of people."

"Some jazz musicians are members of congregations and some are not. I have found most of them to have belief, though most don't go to church services because of the hours they work or because they find the services dry and staid."

"They're away from their families a lot and that leads to family problems. They're out

VOTE DEMOCRATIC Tuesday, April 4

The Republican councilman from the Third Ward had a notice in the paper. Here are some of the things that he is claiming that he has done while he has been councilman.

Item No. 1 — Which was the new fire station. The new fire station was proposed by Larry Englund, a Democratic councilman at that time and plans were being prepared. Mr. Gwinn was not a councilman at this time.

Item No. 2 — The new swimming pool for the Third Ward that is being built in the Centennial Park. This was started when Bob Wells was Councilman and with the help of all the women, particularly women of the Third Ward, they started the petitions with several hundred signers for the swimming pool. The petitions were presented to Mr. Wells and he presented them to the Council. This is one of the items that helped pass the one cent city sales tax.

Item No. 3 — New City Hall, this was also being paid by over a period of years out of the one cent sales tax.

Item No. 4 — Raise for city employees, the people made all these projects possible, by voting on the one cent sales tax. This was all accomplished when there was six Democratic councilman and two Republican councilman.

Paid For by the City Democratic Committee, C. "Chuck" Stockstill, Chairman.

Smithton School Board Candidates at Meeting

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SMITHTON — Ten candidates for election to the R-6 school board appeared at a public meeting Thursday night in the school gymnasium here. The session was arranged by the PTA.

Candidates for two two-year terms on the board were Gary Griffin and Ralph Thomas, both incumbents, and George Page. Candidates Lendal Harpin and Gerald Hancock did not appear.

Seeking two three-year terms were the following candidates: Dr. B. L. Boatright, Dr. Donald Eldenburg, Kenneth Gray, Joe Davis and Mrs. Wilma Carver. Incumbent candidate Matt Green III was not present.

Both Thomas and Mrs. Carver said the school needed a special education teacher. Thomas said he would like to see the kindergarten moved into the main school building, and Mrs. Carver said an expansion program is needed at the school.

Dr. Eldenburg said he is presently serving as secretary of the school board, which has enabled him to learn about the district's problems.

Griffin called for emphasis on vocational-technical education, and Gray said he saw a need for a professional counselor.

Dr. Boatright said he thought that the school could expand by maintaining the current $3.85 levy after a 1953 bond issue is retired next year. He said the money should be adequate to build additional classrooms so the school can qualify for an AA rating. He also stressed the vo-tech need.

Davis said the school should put more "emphasis on education," and questioned having two athletic events in the same week that take away from home study time. Davis said he thought school administrators should live in the district, an opinion also expressed by Page.

The most critical of all the candidates of the present administration, Page said the school should be better, considering the size of the levy. He also criticized what he called a lack of discipline and "secrecy" by the school board.

One questioner brought applause from the audience of about 100 persons, when she asked if there were any "yes men" on the school board. Griffin said there were not.

Mrs. Lynn Wagenknecht, PTA vice president, was moderator of the session.

Rival Expansion Plans Announced at Conference

Following a delay of 35 minutes, a scheduled news conference in the office of Bill Hall, director of Industrial Development, got underway with the announcement that Rival Manufacturing Co. will move its national service division to Sedalia soon.

The new service facility will move into a building at 302 West Second, formerly occupied by the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. here.

Dwight Walker, who will become foreman for the service division, said it would have three functions. "They are to repair inoperable appliances still under warranty, to supply parts and to service facilities in all 50 states and Canada; and to repair Rival products not under warranty, but having an adequate life-span which would justify repair at a nominal charge," Walker said.

Charles Rootes, vice president and treasurer for the firm, said the service facility, now in Kansas City, would be closed and the operation here could begin as early as September.

As a result of the Rival move, 25 employees will be added to Rival's payroll in Sedalia. The service facility, however, will act as a separate entity from the production plant in Sedalia.

Rootes added that repair work will be done on such Rival products as crockpots, grinders, mixers, hairdryers, and ice crushers.

Also attending the news conference were Bill Tweed, vice-president for Rival; Vernon Rodick, plant manager here; and William C. McFarland, secretary for the firm.

Representing the city at the meeting, besides Hall, were members of the Industrial Development Board: Councilman James Gwinn, John B. Ellison Jr., Charles K. Lawrence and Robert Gardner.

Escalating Unrest Seen

BELFAST (AP) — William Whitelaw, Britain's minister for Northern Ireland, started his new assignment today as violence escalated among Catholics, Protestants and troops before the Easter weekend.

The new secretary of state arrived from London Thursday night amid tight security precautions.

During the coming year, Whitelaw will try to find a solution to the strife that has thrown the one million Protestants and 500,000 Roman Catholics of the province into ferocious enmity.

He has said he will stay in Northern Ireland throughout the critical weekend, which launches the province's "marching season." Annual Protestant parades celebrating battle victories over Catholics centuries ago, are due to start soon.

Birdsong Files For 12th Term

E. L. Birdsong

E. L. "Red" Birdsong, Route 1, Smithton, Friday morning filed for the Democratic primary nod as judge from the eastern district on the Pettis County Court.

Birdsong is seeking his 12th term. He has served the County Court for 22 years, he said, with presiding judges J. V. Kester, Frank Monroe, C. Berry Elliott, Henry Lamm, James Green and B. A. Fischer.

He served as presiding judge for short periods during the terms of Monroe, Elliott and Green, when they were forced to leave the bench due to illness, he said.

Birdsong said, "I believe my experience and knowledge of the county's needs qualifies me for another term of office."

The filing deadline for the primary is April 25.

So far, Birdsong faces no opposition. Since the county's recent redistricting, he would serve Wards Two and Three in Sedalia, Flat Creek, Lake Creek, Smithton, Bowling Green, Heath Creek, Cedar, Houstonia and Longwood townships.

Five Persons Die in Car, Train Crash

STRONG CITY, Kan. (AP) — A passenger train struck a speeding car at a marked crossing early today, killing all five persons in the car, the highway patrol reported.

The dead were identified as James Sparks, 31, Emporia; his wife, Esther, age unknown; Sparks' brother, Ned Sparks, 26, Strong City; James Overstreet, 19, Elmdale; Junior Warren, 17, Strong City, the driver.

Trooper Donald Shepherd said the auto sped through a crossing gate, which closed behind the car, and into the path of the train.

Olen Orr, Overland Park, the engineer said he did not see the car until it sped onto the tracks. The auto was knocked around 30 feet by the impact and all five occupants were thrown from the car.

Lyon County Sheriff Frank Coburn reported he had stopped the car 25 minutes earlier in Emporia after it made an erratic turn. Coburn said all occupants except the driver, Warren, had been drinking. Coburn said he did not detain the party because the driver appeared not to have been drinking. He said the group told him they were en route to Strong City to spend the night. The accident occurred around 4:30 a.m.

Several beer cans were found in the wreckage of the car, the patrol said.

Strong City is about 20 miles west of Emporia in east-central Kansas.

filling cavities will not put dentists out of work. There is a shortage of dentists, anyway," he added.

Reflecting on the anti-fluoridation literature he has seen, Dr. Shackles said some of it might convince him to oppose fluoridation if he were not educated in his field.

"Much of the anti-fluoridation literature is based on false premises. An entire article will be written based on the fact that fluoride is a deadly poison. Yet it isn't defined that way in any medical dictionary," he said. "Some of these articles don't even deal with fluoride as it would be used in Sedalia's water, but rather with a completely different substance, like chlorine gas, which is very lethal."

Dr. Shackles considers the most damaging aspect of anti-fluoridation campaigns to be the unnecessary neglect imposed on children.

"One argument against fluoridation is that it won't help adults. How can anyone say something which helps a child won't help an adult?" he asked. "That kind of reasoning is incredible. If you're helping a child you're helping an adult."

Dr. Cynthia Curry, a pediatrician who works with Dr. Robert Edmonds at the Sedalia Children's Clinic, 1718 South Ingram, already practices controlled fluoridation with her patients with parental consent.

"We give fluoride in liquid form or in combination with chewable vitamins," Dr. Curry said. "We continue these applications until age eight. Our program has been in effect here for about four years on an average of 30 new babies a month," she added.

"So far there has not been a single complaint from any parent on introducing fluoride to their children," she said.

Although the program is too young to discern complete results on patients' permanent teeth, Dr. Curry is optimistic about local success of the clinic's fluoride treatment program.

"We give these children the fluoride to help protect their teeth. The program is being administered on the basis of past excellent data on the effects of fluoride," Dr. Curry said.

"I think fluoride is great," she added. "The American Academy of Pediatrics and the American Medical Association support the cause of fluoride."

Sedalians will vote next Tuesday on whether the city's water supply should be fluoridated. The real beneficiaries of a positive response, Dr. Shackles believes, will be the children just beginning growth of their permanent teeth.

"If people could just see what we dentists see on a daily basis ... unnecessary pain, decay and eventually abscess," he said, "if they could see that I think I know how they'd vote."

Explains Insurance Ratings

How Missouri communities are inspected and ranked for fire insurance was explained to Sedalia Kiwanians at their meeting Thursday noon at the Bothwell Hotel.

The main speaker was M. E. Mowrer, state assistant chief engineer of insurance. He was accompanied by Roy Baker of the division.

Mowrer said communities are inspected in six main categories: water supply, fire department, fire alarm, fire prevention, building code and structural condition. Cities are ranked against an "ideal" grading schedule for fire protection systems, and placed on a scale from 1 to 10, he said, with Class 1 being the best.

Although Sedalia now has a third fire station, it is still in Class 7, Mowrer said, but added that the city would probably earn a Class 6 rating once the new fire truck is delivered. He said most cities the size of Sedalia fall between Class 6 and 8.

Baker estimated that residential insurance rates should go down by about 7 or 8 per cent with the lower classification, while mercantile rates would be lowered about 5 per cent on buildings and 3 per cent on contents.

The program was introduced by Cecil Stephenson.

President Jim Woods read a letter from the Smith-Cotton speech and debate department, thanking Kiwanis for sponsoring the department's recent tournament.

Henry Salveter reported on the progress of his 50th anniversary committee, looking toward the club's golden anniversary banquet April 22.

Guests were Ed Mitchell, with Bob Austin; Charles Maggard and Herb Taylor; and George Cain, with his grandfather, E. H. McLaughlin. Birthday greetings were extended to Verne McRoy, Jim Giokaris and Doug Kneibert. Singing was led by Abe Rosenthal, accompanied by Mrs. Keith Maynard.

The Rev. Robert Magee gave the invocation.

Two Get-Away Cars Located By Officials

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Police said they recovered two get-away cars and arrested a suspect in connection with the robbery of more than $40,000 Thursday from Lutheran Hospital in south St. Louis.

The money, to be used for cashing payroll checks, was taken from an armored car guard and an employee of a check cashing firm by two armed men in the basement corridor of the hospital.

One car was recovered later in north St. Louis and the other in St. Louis County. Police then arrested the owner of one car, a St. Louis woman, as an accessory.

The woman made no statement and no formal charge was lodged immediately. The robbers were described as black men in their later 20s.

In a similar robbery in 1966, $33,000 was taken at City Hospital in St. Louis. A year later robbers got $59,000 in payroll money at Jewish Hospital in the west end.

Stronger Case for New Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators say a General Accounting Office report sharply critical of federal vaccine regulation bolsters their case for an independent consumer-protection agency.

"If there had been an independent consumer advocate, I doubt that an agency such as the Division of Biologics Standards could have continued to allow millions of doses of watered influenza vaccine to be released for public use year after year," Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said Thursday.

Ribicoff released a GAO report saying DBS let 32 ineffective vaccines stay on the market for at least 10 years.

GAO also said DBS, part of the Health, Education and Welfare Department's National Institutes of Health, released flu vaccines for three years even though its tests showed their potency to be as low as less than 1 per cent of standards.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., accused DBS of "callous disregard for the public health and safety," and said an independent consumer-advocacy agency would have looked out for public interest "in the face of bureaucratic lassitude, unconcern, neglect or perversion of purpose."

Based on the GAO report, he said, it is now known that "indiscriminate approval of influenza vaccine by DBS from 1966 to 1968 subjected Americans to over 60 million doses of what may have been worthless prevention—or worse."

GAO said it found 75 of the 263 biologic products licensed by DBS "generally were not recognized—according to the director of DBS—as being effective by most of the medical profession."

There was no immediate reaction from NIH or drug makers.

Ribicoff made public a list of 32 products currently on the market "that are ineffective. All of those drugs have been on the market for at least 10 years, some have been sold for decades."

Makers of these products are Eli Lilly & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.; Hollister-Stier Laboratories, Spokane, Wash.; Merck, Sharp & Dohme, West Point, Pa.; Delmont Laboratories, Inc., Swarthmore, Pa.; Merrell-National Laboratories division of Richardson Merrell, Cincinnati; Hoffman Laboratories, Inc., Fair Lawn, N.J.; and Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit.

Stores Taking Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — A day after Treasury Secretary John B. Connally talked with leading chain-store executives about the high cost of food, three supermarket chains moved to stop the spiral.

Grand Union and Winn-Dixie put freezes on current prices Thursday. Safeway Stores, Inc., cut beef prices in its 246 stores in Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Grand Union froze fresh meat and poultry prices for 30 days in its 500-plus stores in the East, and Winn-Dixie, with 871 stores in the Southeast, froze all food prices through April.

The Agriculture Department, meanwhile, announced that the prices paid to farmers for beef on the hoof dropped 20 cents per hundredweight in the month ending March 15. A record high of $32.60 per hundred pounds of beef was set last month. It fell to $32.40 in the latest price period.

The decline, though slight, was the first since last summer.

Safeway said it lowered its meat prices as a result of the drop in prices paid for cattle. Basil Winstead, vice president of Safeway, said the reductions had been planned for some time to take effect during the Easter weekend, but "Safeway decided to make these reductions effective two days earlier than planned as part of its pledge to the administration to do everything in its power to help keep food prices low."

On several cuts of beef, Safeway reduced prices 10 cents a pound.

Interviewed Thursday by the National Public Affairs Center for Television, Butz said the drop could be expected in the coming month as declines in prices at the farm filter through the farm-to-market channel.

Sedalia Lodge Wins Ritual Competition

The Sedalia Moose Lodge No. 1494 recently came in second place in statewide ritual contest competition in St. Louis County.

The ritual team contest is judged on how well team members present local lodge enrollment plans. Members of that team were Bill Erling, governor; Lloyd Deuschle, past governor; Larry Riley, junior governor; Sam Tuck, prelate; Tom McNalley, sergeant-at-arms; and Kenny Schilb Sr., orator.

Erling placed first in the governor's category in individual competition and Deuschle won the past governor's category. Judging was done on appearance, expressions, delivery of speech and floor manner.

The competition was hosted by the Maplewood Moose Lodge.

The Easter Message—Conclusion

Creation Without Purpose a Contradiction in Terms

(Editor's note: This is the final article of a five-part Easter series about the Hope of Heaven.)

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

An "inordinate vanity," Voltair called it. The "great lie," said Nietzsche. An "illusion," Freud claimed. An "opiate," said Karl Marx. These are among the barbs that have been hurled at the human hope of heaven. But to believers, it not only makes sense, but is the only sound rationale for existence itself.

Either creation has an ultimate purpose, a definite reason for being, or else it has none. And to affirm life fully demands affirming that it has a full objective.

"The only live alternative to this is that the world has no real meaning at all," observes Quaker philosopher Elton Trueblood.

Obviously, by the very flux in reality itself, it is headed somewhere. It always points beyond its immediacy. Both man and nature give evidence of being intrinsically unfinished business. They're moving, continually developing, working toward some completion.

"We know that the whole creation has been groaning in travail together until now," the apostle Paul wrote long before science discovered the constant fluidity of the universe. "And not only the creation, but we ourselves."

These processive intimations, however, are not the main grounds for the classic Christian hope. It rests rather on the gracious element in the bestowal of existence itself, its gift-like quality, its implicitly loving basis, vivified by the promise put into it by Christ's resurrection from death.

"By His great mercy we have been born anew to a living hope," the apostle Peter wrote, an "entrance into the eternal kingdom of our Lord."

This high expectancy, at its core, is based on a conviction that the universal power source and dynamism in life is love, the heart of God, and that this love wants utmost fulfillment for its beloved, for human beings.

"To love a being is to say, 'thou shalt not die,'" notes Catholic philosopher Gabriel Marcel. This is a built-in concomitant of love, and if love truly is inherent to life, then the intent is to enhance it.

"Behold, I make all things new," the Book of Revelation expresses the divine promise to men. "And God Himself will be with them; He will wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more."

However, in the modern technocratic world, the vision often is derided as a "heaven syndrome," reflecting egocentric self-interest, or "cabin-in-the-sky" escapism that inclines people to twiddle their thumbs while waiting for it.

In motivationally traceable fact, however, it is from the concept of "the eternal and the unlimited that the progress of the human race has sprung," says British historian Christopher Dawson.

It is true that in past centuries, a one-sided concentration on the afterlife seemed to discount efforts to improve this world. But the modern counterbalancing church stress on the priority of the present has tended to blank out the trans-historical dimension, thus shrinking men's horizons and their hopefulness, and to an extent, devaluing their ultimate worth as persons.

"Now some of us are beginning to recognize that without an ultimate destiny, man's life in the here and now is depreciated even more than was the case when ultimate destiny was contrasted with this life," says theologian John M. Cobb. "This life and final destiny belong together."

Although many people have assumed that "modernity precluded any such hope," he said that actually, "personal life after death makes more sense than is usually realized."

And increasing knowledge of reality has strengthened rather than weakened the case for it.

But aside from the accumulating latter-day clues, the very hallmark of man is his impulse to transcendence, the characteristic that distinguishes him. His personality always surpasses his own self-expression.

His actuality never quite matches his potentiality. He senses inwardly he is more than himself. It is "a dimension of ultimacy or of the unconditional," says Presbyterian theologian Langdon Gilkey.

The "earnest expectation of the creature," Scripture puts it. In his self-consciousness, man looks on himself as in a mirror, no longer merely knowing but knowing he knows, an object of his own reflection. He is so sensitized that he is puzzled by his own existence, wondering at why he is, speculating, questioning, projecting beyond himself. In a sense, his development in the creative process, in contrast to the rest of reality, already has brought the birth of a "new world," giving intrinsic evidence of such further possibility.

"Here the mystery is the mystery of known fact," says Trueblood.

However, dean Krister Stendahl of Harvard's Divinity School says the idea of personal immortality often appears "too little, too selfish, too preoccupied with self" and that people today are "less and less concerned about it." It "may be on the way out," he adds.

"The question is whether God's justice will win out. Will God ultimately come through? Will the kingdom come in which righteousness flows forth and justice is in the midst of us all? The fighting arrogance of man, even heightened into projecting his importance into immortality, should perhaps be checked." It "has a tendency to claim to know more than may be good for us."

Indeed, it can involve brash assumptions, and often has, including overblown, detailed previews of heaven's fun and furnishings, its architecture, count of the occupants, and date of its arrival, thus trivializing Biblical thought and what basically must remain mystery.

"No eye has seen, nor ear heard, nor the heart of man conceived, what God has prepared for those who love Him," Paul writes. Whatever its features, they apparently will be enormously surprising. "No doubt it will be utterly different than anything we have ever imagined," says Scottish theologian John Baillie.

However, the surpassing outcome explicitly includes people, individual persons, of all history. While this can be distorted into overweening self-regard, the ultimate good cannot be realized just in some abstract sense, but necessarily must be for persons, for righting wrongs done them, for filling out their fragmented lives. There is no such thing as goodness apart from individual beings, from specific selves.

"Their good and the good are indissolubly interfused and this must include ourselves," says Anglican theologian John Austin Baker. "To be zealous for the universal triumph of good but not for its triumph in myself is nonsensical, a contradiction. It is not more moral, but less."

As Jesus put it, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." And the ultimate realization of it cannot be if some detached principle, but directly in persons, including self. A personal sense of life's worth is the very basis of regard for others and of willingness to suffer for them.

While it sometimes is assumed that justice, by itself, is a pure, noble objective, this is a thin view of it. The aim is never only for justice's sake, but for love's sake, for the sake of people, personally, individually.

To eliminate personalities from the final consummation would "defeat the very meaning" of their inclusion in the process at all, says Episcopal theologian John Macquarrie. "If everything is to return to an undifferentiated unity, then creation itself would have been pointless in the first place, and all the risk of freedom in creation, its suffering and striving, would have been sheer waste."

And it definitely would not be set right for its main participants, for the oppressed, excluded, starved and slain human beings. It makes sense only if it moves toward their justification and full potentialities, an order in which their varying personal identities are maintained, freely and responsibly complementing each other in a richer, yet diversified, harmonious unity.

"In such a future all that matters about our selfhood is preserved, but is developed, transformed and purified, passing from the compartmentalized psyche that we know now into myriads of free open selves," says theologian Cobb. Each would totally know and be totally open to all, and each would enjoy "an inconceivable richness of values and meanings."

The "commonwealth in heaven," Scripture calls it.

Without that preservation of inter-acting variety, a mark of every advanced mode of being, it would mean a return to some monolithic, undifferentiated state, like primordial energy, without the sensitive, complex web of inter-relationships that distinguish its highest life form.

Actually, at every level of nature, the more any individual entity is "united in a whole, the more it attains differentiating self-sufficiency," says Catholic philosopher Eulalio R. Balthazar. "The more 'other' they become in conjunction, the more they find themselves as 'self'."

Strictly speaking, however, Biblical faith does not assert human "immortality," but rather that man is mortal, that he dies. The "immortality of the soul" phrase is from Greek philosophy, which sees man as double-natured, his body insignificant and the soul leaving it at death for the Elysian fields.

"There is no phrase in Scripture about the 'immortal soul' or the 'immortality of the soul,'" notes Catholic scholar Joseph E. Kokjohn.

Rather, Scripture sees man as a psychosomatic whole, body and spirit, his life in eternity given entirely by God through resurrection from death. While Judaism does not specify conclusions about it, it is foreseen by Old Testament prophets, Isaiah and Daniel.

Christ both promised and foretold in it history, as involving entire personality, body and spirit. Its pattern necessarily would be preserved after death until the resurrection is effected. How this happens is utterly unknown, but advanced physics now recognizes that all reality participates both in mentality and materiality without in fact being either.

In any event, the resurrection means transformation, as it did in Christ, who afterward passes through locked doors, appears and disappears. It also implies total renovation, such as a hunchback no longer being a hunchback but completely renewed.

"How are the dead raised?" the skeptics asked Paul, who replied, "You foolish man! What you sow does not come to life unless it dies. And what you sow is not the body which is to be, but a bare kernel." An acorn does not become another acorn, but an oak tree.

"God gives it a body as he has chosen, and to each kind of seed its own body. ... What is sown is imperishable, what is raised is imperishable. It is sown in dishonor, it is raised in glory. It is sown in weakness, it is raised in power. ... We shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised imperishable, and we shall be changed."

The transformation also has cosmic dimensions, involving not just man but the whole course of existence, the earth and its spatio-temporal environment, a rolling up of all history. Paul says God's reconciling purpose was "set forth in Christ, as a plan for the fullness of time, to unite all things in Him, things in heaven and things on earth."

This "fullness of time" does not indicate flat, boring timelessness, but a recapitulation of everything in time, the past, present and future of every part and person of it, a maturing of it so that it possesses its fullest activity, capacities and unhampered further creativity.

At present, time is highly ambiguous, theoretically curved and spatially reversible, yet seeming only successive for human beings. It is a mere quantity when measured mechanically by a clock, but highly qualitative to persons, who experience it as relative to its content, either rich or dragglingly barren. It also is cumulative, the present time always loaded with more reality than past time.

In fact, the present is "not fully real," Balthazar points out. Without a future, "it would cease to be." Similarly, man never reaches his "full actuality" in this life. He is a succession of selves, from childhood through manhood, a becoming, never totally identical to his past self.

Neither is he yet free, since ignorance binds and blocks his choices. Yet as he matures, he becomes less and less a creature of the instant, subject to passing circumstances. He becomes a more integrated self, partly transcending successive time, approaching its fullness. Its truth, Jesus said, would make man truly free.

The coming kingdom, Jesus said, is like a tiny "seed" growing toward a great tree filled with birds, like a field developing toward its harvest, like a hidden treasure or "pearl of great price" for which man should invest all his resources.

He likened its realization to a festival gathering, a wedding banquet of righteousness and joy. A "new heaven and a new earth," the Book of Revelation says, with a "new name" and a "new song."

many rooms," Jesus said. "If it were not so, would I have told you that I go to prepare a place for you? And when I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself, that where I am you may be also."

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — In a traditional wedding ceremony that featured contemporary music, Rep. Barry M. Goldwater Jr. was married to Susan Lee Gherman of Newport Beach, Calif.

The 30-minute ceremony at St. Mary's Episcopal church Thursday was conducted by the Rt. Rev. John Joseph Harte, Episcopal bishop of Arizona, before 120 guests.

A last-minute change in churches resulted from a disagreement between the 33-year-old California Republican, son of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, and the minister of St. James Episcopal church in Newport Beach, where the service was scheduled originally.

Goldwater and Miss Gherman, 25, wanted contemporary as well as traditional music at the ceremony but the Rev. John P. Ashley II would not allow it.

The songs played at the ceremony on electric piano and electric guitars included "We've Only Just Begun," "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," and the Beatles' "Something."

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Pablo Casals, whose visits to the United States are few, took up the cello and played what he called one of his favorites.

Casals appeared on the Arizona State University campus Thursday night during a benefit concert to raise funds for an International Cello Library being established here.

He received five standing ovations, one as he played "Song of the Birds," which he composed.

Earlier in the concert he conducted the Phoenix Symphony Orchestra in "Hymn to the United Nations," another of his compositions.

Casals also received an honorary doctorate of humane letters from Arizona State.

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Truman Capote has filed suit for $101,250 against Paramount Pictures for alleged breach of contract.

Capote claims that under a contract with the movie company signed last Sept. 21 he was to deliver a screen version of F. Scott Fitzgerald's "The Great Gatsby" to Paramount by Jan. 15.

He said he received $33,750 on signing the contract and was to receive an additional $16,875 later.

The suit said Capote had finished and delivered 90 per cent of the script before he fell ill on Jan. 6.

He was confined to bed until Jan. 18, the suit says, but the remainder of the script was sent to Paramount Jan. 24.

The author said he was informed by Paramount after he recovered from his illness that it was terminating the contract because of breach of deadline. He said Paramount told him another author was hired to finish the script.

New Trial Is Asked For Convicted Man

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A new trial has been requested for John Frankoviglia, 54, who was convicted last Saturday of first-degree murder in the shooting of Sol Landie, Kansas City scrap metal dealer.

Landie was slain in his home Nov. 22, 1970, by one of four men who ransacked his house. The state contended Frankoviglia hired them to kill the man because Landie had testified before a grand jury about gambling operations.

The motion for a new trial was filed Thursday by Frankoviglia's attorney, J. Arnot Hill of Kansas City.

Accuse Company of Sex Discrimination Tactics

LAKE LAND, Fla. (AP) — Two petite female truck drivers have filed sex discrimination charges after a company ruling that prohibits single women from making long-distance hauls with men drivers.

"Ever since I was a little kid I wanted to drive a big truck," said Virginia Barnes, an attractive 35-year-old brunette. "They gave me a chance and then they took it away from me."

Mrs. Barnes and 48-year-old Pauline Blackburn have filed complaints with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission against Watkins Motor Lines Inc. of Lakeland.

The women complained after company officials decreed on March 1 that drivers of opposite sexes could not team up on trucks with sleeping quarters unless they were married.

"There is less chance of hanky panky on the road than there would be in the trucking offices," scoffed Mrs. Blackburn, a pretty divorcee.

"I think I should be able to drive a truck because of my ability, not because I'm married," added Mrs. Barnes, a mother of two who is in the process of divorcing her husband.

Barney R. Brown, vice president of the Lakeland trucking firm, said that the ruling "had nothing to do with discrimination. . . It creates too much of a problem."

Prison Sentence For His Role in Slaying

JUNCTION CITY, Kan. (AP) — Thomas D. Phillyaw, 26, Philadelphia, Pa., has been sentenced to five to 20 years in prison in connection with the slaying of Francis Dowell, 36, of Junction City.

Dowell was stabbed 10 times, shot twice in the head, and his body was set on fire at his home Oct. 30, 1971.

Phillyaw pleaded guilty Thursday to reduced charges of voluntary manslaughter and arson. He originally was charged with second-degree murder and arson.

Edward Joseph Higgins, 24, Philadelphia, also charged in the case, hanged himself in a Philadelphia jail Nov. 24. Higgins and Phillyaw, both ex-convicts, were working with a construction gang in the Junction City area at the time Dowell was killed.

Angry Over Use of Tapes

HENDERSON, Iowa (AP) — U.S. Rep. William Scherle, R-Iowa, rapped Postmaster General E. T. Klassen Thursday for using color film and tape cassettes to deliver word of his cost reduction program instead of his own postal service.

Scherle said he had asked the postal service by telephone for an estimate of the cost of the films and tapes without success, and he renewed his demand in a letter to Klassen.

"The sight of your secret sentries stealing silently through the night with the guarded tape cassettes of your 15 minute colored film message would be humorous except for the fact that the whole '007' operation was financed by the American taxpayer," Scherle wrote Klassen.

Klassen delivered the films and cassettes to key Postal Service officials across the country by courier Wednesday.

He announced that no new employees would be hired for 90 days, there will be renewed emphasis on service and courtesy to customers, and temporary employees, outside contractors and expert consultants will be discontinued in an effort to avoid a $450 million postal rate increase next January.

"From press accounts of the message, there doesn't seem to be anything of such urgent or classified nature as to justify these James Bond tactics," Scherle's letter to Klassen said.

"At much less cost in time and money," Scherle added, "you could have mailed a six-cent postcard to your employees with the message, 'Shape up or ship out.'"

"With the federal taxpayer still shelling out over a billion dollars a year in financial aid to the Postal Service, members of Congress have an obligation to monitor your activities."

Scherle asked Klassen if he used the film and cassette method of communicating his thoughts "because you lack faith in the postal service."

He said "millions of disillusioned Americans depend on the mail service as an indispensable adjunct to their economic livelihood. They cannot afford the luxury of cassette couriers."

Scherle said it is "even more incredible" that Klassen took the action without any cost estimate.

"I again renew my request that you provide me with the exact cost of this episode," Scherle said.

Big Smoke In Tobacco Products

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — It was a pretty big puff, more than $200 worth of cigarettes and cigars going up in smoke.

Carmen DiCello, a pharmacist, did the burning recently on the sidewalk in front of his store, to dramatize that he wouldn't sell tobacco products any more.

DiCello said he was giving up that part of his business "for the health of the community" and urged other storekeepers to follow suit.

The pharmacist said his 12-year-old son was the impetus for banning tobacco sales.

"He asked me why I sold them when I considered them dangerous to the health," DiCello said.

Last summer at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association DiCello sponsored a resolution asking drug store owners to ban tobacco sales. It was adopted, but no one implemented it.

DiCello decided to take the first step, to perhaps start a bandwagon rolling.

It was something he wanted to do five years ago but the profit motive stalled him.

Now he has burned his license to sell tobacco products.

Woman Fined $750 For Not Paying Taxes

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A federal judge has fined Mrs. Doris F. McCoy, 34, $750 and placed her on probation three years for failing to report nearly $20,000 income she said she earned as a prostitute in 1968.

A jury convicted her March 22 in U.S. District Court.

Mrs. McCoy, who told the court Thursday she preferred to be called an entertainer rather than a prostitute, had expressed intention to continue the work.

Judge Elmo B. Hunter explained terms of the probation and said she could not continue as a prostitute. Mrs. McCoy conferred with her lawyer, then said she would obey the judge while on probation.

EXCERPTS FROM MY STUDIES HAVE TURNED ME AGAINST FLUORIDATION

Casimir R. Sheft, D.D.S.

After a 25 year study of the subject, this New Jersey dentist and public servant has concluded that fluoridation is more dangerous than it is valuable.

Radioactive strontium 90 (from H-Bomb fallout) combines with accumulated fluorides in the body and precipitates as the highly insoluble Sr90F2 within the body. This means that the rate at which the strontium 90 is excreted or thrown off will be even slower than ordinarily occurs. ("The Biological Hazards of Strontium 90 and Fluoridation" by Dr. J. Kerwin: Dental Digest, Feb. 1958)

Epidemic skeletal malformations have been reported among people drinking water containing as little as 0.8 ppm of fluoride in Lebanon. (Archives of Environmental Health, May 1963)

One per cent of children under ten years of age and pregnant women could not tolerate even the low level dosages of fluoride that have been recommended by public health officials. (Feltman and Kosel: The Journal of Dental Medicine, Oct., 1961)

Independent studies by at least six groups of scientists have shown that fluoride causes hardening of the arteries even in young persons. (Dr. P. Zanfagna, M.D.; International Society for Fluoride Research)

Abnormal bone and osteomalacia is produced when fluoride supplements are given without a concomitant calcium supplement. (Dr. Jowsey; Mayo Clinic)

"Fluorides are violent poisons to all living tissues because of their precipitation of calcium. They cause fall of blood pressure, respiratory failure, and general paralysis. Continuous ingestion of non-fatal doses causes permanent inhibition of growth." (The U. S. Dispensary, 24th Ed., pp. 1456-57)

Fluoridated water aggravates arthritic conditions and is a "potential long range danger to health." (Dr. William Gutman, M.D.; Flower Fifth Avenue Hospital, N.Y.C.)

Use of fluoridated Ottawa City water in artificial kidney machines was accompanied by bone diseases, including pain in the bones, arthritic pains in the joints, nerve irritation, knobby growths on some bones and such marked dissolution of bone that spontaneous fractures occurred. Ribs even cracked under the pressure of breathing. (Dr. Gerald Posen, M.D., Ottawa General Hospital; Jan., 1969)

Because of its toxicity and danger to health, fluoridation has been rejected in Austria, Italy, Spain, France, Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Switzerland.

The contention that fluorides will harden bone and help reduce the bone disease osteoporosis is false! That claim has been discredited and contradicted by no less than the illustrious British Research Council in a report published in the Medical News (London), on Sept. 26, 1969; and also in a report published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition (Jan., 1971).

In October, 1966 the Food and Drug Administration banned the sale of all prenatal fluoride products because of the possible danger to unborn babies. If prenatal fluoride ingestion by way of a carefully controlled tablet dosage could be dangerous, how can it be claimed that the consumption of uncontrolled quantities of fluoridated water by a pregnant woman (or anyone) is safe?

SCHOOL LEVY- WE NEED IT!

1. Raising the tax levy will give Sedalia School District No. 200: public kindergartens, will relieve overcrowded conditions at Smith-Cotton, and will provide for operation, maintenance, and staff of the Junior High School.
2. Passing of tax levy will strengthen the position of Sedalia School District No. 200, in regaining a AAA rating.
3. If the tax levy is passed on April 4, 1972, it will increase taxes from $2.97 to $3.62.
4. Sedalia presently has the lowest tax levy in all Missouri cities of 5,000 or more population.

Fluoridation Opinion Sought From Ballot

On Tuesday the voters of Sedalia will be asked to express their opinions on the following question: "Should fluoridation be added to the water supply of the City of Sedalia?"

It is this newspaper's opinion today, as it has been in the past, that the answer to that question should be yes.

This opinion ballot will be simply that — an expression of opinion from the voters. It will not automatically result in Sedalia's water supply being fluoridated.

But it will give the mayor and City Council an indication of the community's feeling about fluoridation. It was simply because we felt this would be valuable that The Democrat-Capital offered to underwrite the costs of the special ballot.

Although fluoridation has become a current subject of discussion and debate in Sedalia, it is nothing new. We have had it, in one form or another, for many, many years in this country.

Artificial fluoridation of municipal water supplies began in the United States more than 25 years ago. We have had thirty years of research on the practice, years in which to carefully observe and detail its benefits, and to watch for possible undesirable effects.

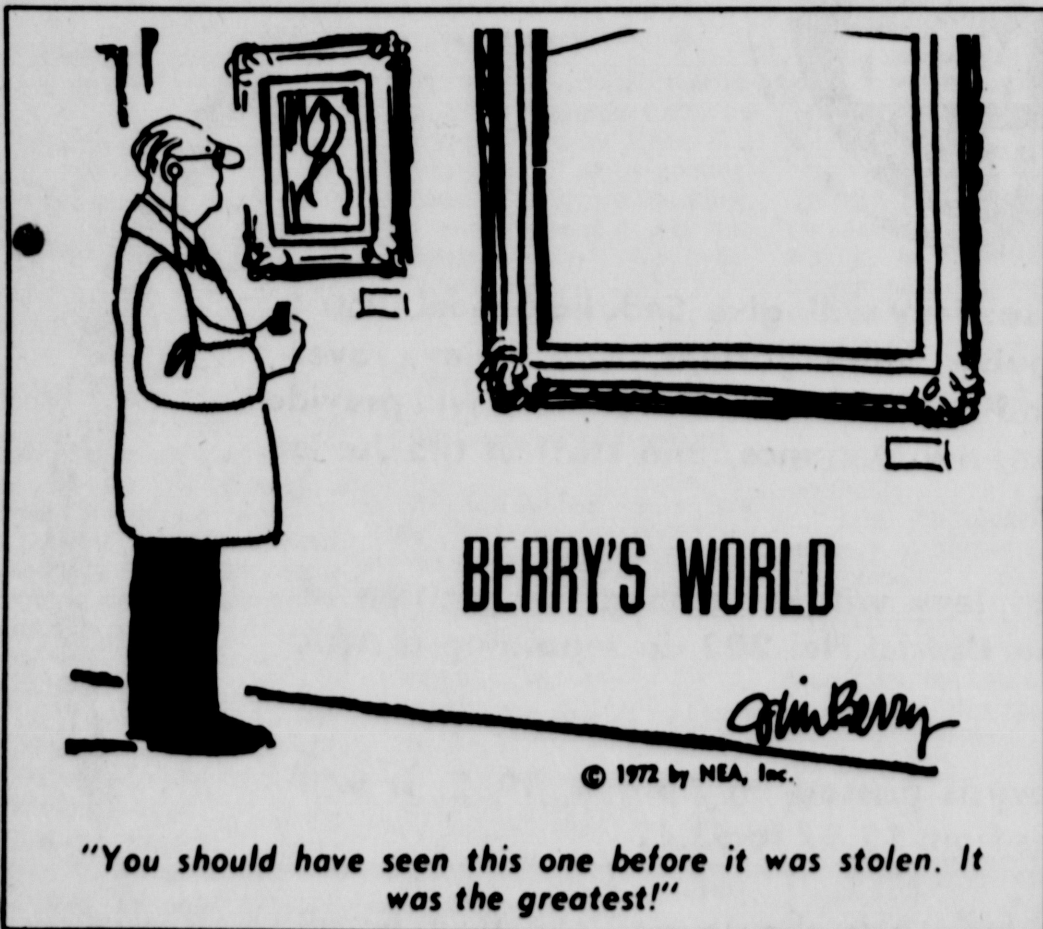

What have we found out over these years? The list of public endorsements of fluoridation is much too long to include here. But take just one, part of a statement by the U.S. Public Health Service:

"The enormity of the dental decay problem in the United States, coupled with the high cost of health services and the limited manpower to deliver them, makes the application of all available preventive measures an economical and humanist necessity. Therefore, the Public Health Service urges prompt fluoridation of water supplies as the most effective public health measure available for preventing tooth decay."

Many communities across the nation have had higher than average concentrations of natural fluoride in their water for generations. Citizens of these communities have shown no ill effects, rather decided benefits in terms of fewer cavities. (Hughesville and Houstonia in Pettis County are notable in this regard, as is Concordia.)

Over the past three days this newspaper has detailed the benefits of fluoridation as determined by the most exhaustive scientific tests available in this country. We think they speak for themselves. We claim no inherent expertise in this field ourselves; only the ability to read material on both sides and judge for ourselves. After doing this, it is our opinion that the preponderance of informed opinion is overwhelmingly on the side of fluoridation.

"You should have seen this one before it was stolen. It was the greatest!"

U.S. Jews Press Nixon on His Trip to Russia

WASHINGTON — When President Nixon visits the Soviet Union in May the 2.2 million Jews in that country may give him a bigger headache than the hardline members of the Communist party.

Which is ironic, since Nixon won his political spurs fighting Communists, or those alleged to be.

The President is under increasing pressure to make the fate of Soviet Jewry a major item of talks and negotiations with Soviet leaders. The Union of Councils for Soviet Jews wants Mr. Nixon to tell the Russians: "Free your Jews." It further wants Mr. Nixon to box in Kremlin leaders by announcing that he will guarantee entry into the United States to any Jew the Soviets permit to emigrate.

President Nixon knows how sensitive

Soviet leaders are on this subject. So while he seems willing to woo, or at least placate, American Jews by giving Israel planes and other backing, he is reluctant to confront the Russians with an issue that might foul up his trip and diminish his claim to the title, "Mr. Peacemaker."

Harold B. Light of San Francisco, vice chairman of the Union of Councils for Soviet Jews, is traveling the country to arouse concern that "President Nixon has never himself made a serious public statement re Soviet Jews."

Light recently sent the President a telegram in which he relayed a request from four Soviet Jews to meet with Mr. Nixon during his visit to the Soviet Union. Their rationale is that Mr. Nixon will never learn the truth about the suffering of Jews in Russia from Soviet leaders, or from Jews handpicked by the Soviet government to speak about the problem.

As letters and petitions roll into the White House, inspired by Light and others, the President must wrestle with this set of facts:

✓ The Soviets already have made what for them are unprecedented concessions, permitting some 2,000 Jews a month to leave Russia.

✓ Those allowed to emigrate represent only a fraction of the Jews requesting exit permits. Those leaving tend to be women, children and old men because the Russians are super-sensitive over even the suggestion that "Soviet citizens" are being allowed to go join the Israeli army and war on Russia's friends, the Arabs.

✓ Israel is not prepared to handle a truly massive influx of Jews from the Soviet Union. Light and his colleagues want the President to say aloud to Soviet leaders, "Give me your Jewish masses, yearning to be free..." and that Nixon guarantees them a home. Mr. Nixon figures this would be offensive to Russia's leaders, and counterproductive. Furthermore, he knows that the Soviet Union argues that it has spent millions of rubles to educate and train Jews, and it is not about to see them take their scientific know-how and other expertise to the potential enemy, the United States.

"Nixon is not going to make Soviet Jewry a major item of U.S.-Soviet diplomacy unless Jews prod him into it," Light told me. "I want to make it politically obvious to him that it is better for him to do this than not to do it."

"So we keep saying to the President: 'If you have a policy on Soviet Jewry, tell us,' but we keep getting vague letters from the State Department and no answers from the White House."

The White House has tried to evade this challenge with an assertion that there will be no formal agenda for the Russian trip, so it is not possible to place Soviet Jewry "on the agenda."

Light and his colleagues insist that "if the President speaks his concern about Soviet Jewry it will automatically be on the agenda, whether the Russians want it there or not."

Light is encouraged to keep the heat on the White House by the success of Canadian groups that put so many protesters in the streets a few months ago that Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin spent much of his visit to Canada defending Russia's treatment of Jews.

Light wonders aloud whether Nixon will prove less responsive to a public outcry than Kosygin.

Light noted that the White House must be feeling the heat since it recently invited in the entire American Jewish press for a White House briefing.

That may pacify "some of the Jewish establishment," Light said, but he vowed that his groups will not let up until Mr. Nixon cries: "Let These people go!"

Disc Jockey Payola Riding High Again

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—We have uncovered evidence of a new payola scandal in the billion-dollar record industry. Disc jockeys and program directors across the country are provided with free vacations, prostitutes, cash and cars as payoffs for song plugging.

Some big-time disc jockeys have run up thousands of dollars in bills at Las Vegas pleasure houses, all on the expense accounts of record companies.

More than a dozen years ago, the nation was shocked by payola scandals. Congressional hearings revealed in sordid detail how record companies manipulated public tastes by bribing disc jockeys to boost selected records. As a result of the hearings, payola became a serious federal crime.

Yet our investigation shows that payola is back, with only the techniques slightly changed. The new payola focuses on the "top forty" lists, which can make a hit or consign a record to oblivion.

The "top forty" lists supposedly are based on the popularity of the new songs. The record companies have been able to rig the lists artificially by paying off disc jockeys and program directors.

The stakes run into the hundreds of millions.

Record company officials, of course, write stern memos against payola. But many of them wink while their promotion men lavish disc jockeys with favors.

My associate, Les Whitten, has spoken to witnesses on the inside of the record industry. They asked that their identities be withheld for fear there might be reprisals.

These witnesses have described the payoff patterns in detail. Not only are big-time disc jockeys collecting payola, but the small-station jockeys are clamoring to get their share of the boodle.

The record companies, for example, have furnished wholesale lots of free records to so-called "R & B" (Rhythm and Blues) jockeys and programmers. They, in turn, sell the records cut-rate to record stores, pocket the profit and boom their benefactors' records over the airwaves.

The more audacious record promoters have simply bribed the record pluggers with cash or with new cars. Thus, an underpaid R & B jockey may be seen riding around in a $5,000 car, all for pushing a few "top forty" records.

The dupes in all this are America's bop-crazy teen-agers, always eager to buy the latest "hits." These youngsters have no inkling of the gangster-like world which rigs record marketing.

The Federal Communications Commission also hasn't detected the smell of scandal, apparently, in the teen-age record marketplace.

Footnote: So widespread is corruption in the selection of "top forty" records that ethical stations like WABC in New York City have set up an expensive sampling and monitoring system to make sure record stores fairly report what records are selling best. Only these records are included as authentic WABC "top forties."

The saddest thing about the IRA funerals in Belfast is not the burials but the faces of the mourners. The faces belong, for the most part, to the old and the young.

My associate George Clifford walked in Belfast the other day in the funeral procession for Tony Lewis, a member of an IRA bomb squad. Lewis was killed with three others when the row house they were using as a bomb factory was ripped apart by an explosion.

Lewis had been an IRA bomber for three years. He was only 16 when he died.

"He was a good boy," said a lady who runs a shop in the neighborhood. "He was always neat. And now he's gone. That's the way it is here. We have boys who are 40 years old and men who are 14."

As Lewis' remains were carried from the soot-stained, remarkably tiny house where he grew up, a squad of boys in IRA uniforms hoisted the coffin on their shoulders and marched defiantly past British soldiers who stood nearby with automatic weapons ready. Women from the neighborhood opened umbrellas and used them to block some of the soldiers who were trying to photograph the pallbearers for later arrest.

Around the corner, other uniformed youths from the Provisional IRA were waiting, and fell in line behind the casket. There were pretty, fresh-faced girls, and, after them, boys who tried to stand very straight.

There were about 100 of these young members of the IRA, and some of them could not have been more than 10 years old. A few seemed even younger. The oldest girl said she was 16.

The faces of these children, who are ready to kill and ready to die are the same faces Americans see playing in the streets where they live. The circumstance of 3,000 miles and brutal oppression has taken these children from their play and made them urban guerrillas.

"These are the children of the men in Long Kesh," a resident of the area explained. Long Kesh is the concentration camp where suspected IRA activists are held without trial. Prime Minister Edward Heath, belatedly, has now promised that the internment will be phased out.

But only a few hours before Tony Lewis' funeral, a Belfast man was found innocent by a jury on arms possession charges. As he left the court, he was arrested again by the British army and became another of Belfast's political prisoners. IRA members insist that each of these arrests produces new recruits, some of them children.

I think it was Santayana who once said that those who are ignorant of history are destined to repeat it. Well, I confess my ignorance to some Missouri history that is of current interest, thoughtfully pointed out to me by a reader. So I am going to repeat some of it.

It has to do with Yellowstone National Park, the founding of which 100 years ago was the subject of an editorial Wednesday.

An interesting footnote to how Yellowstone was saved from private exploitation is found in Vol. II of "Missouri and Missourians," by Floyd Calvin Shoemaker.

Shoemaker relates the role played by George Graham Vest in preserving Yellowstone for future generations. Vest was a famous Missouri lawyer and statesman, having begun his law practice in 1853 in Georgetown.

Vest was a confirmed Rebel, serving as Confederate Gen. Sterling "Pap" Price's judge advocate in Missouri for a year during the Civil War, as well as in the Confederate House and Senate. After the war he moved to Sedalia, where he practiced law until moving to Kansas City in 1877. He capped his career by serving four consecutive terms in the U.S. Senate.

One evening in 1881, Vest happened to be seated in the dining room of a South Dakota hotel, when he overheard a group of men from New York City celebrating some good fortune. They spoke of obtaining a lease to some extremely valuable land in the West, which would make them all rich. Then Vest heard the words, "Yellowstone Park."

Incredible as it may seem today, the group of financiers had for a small sum persuaded the Interior Department to give them an almost perpetual lease on the 5,500 square miles of Yellowstone National Park for their own enrichment!

Vest kept his peace until Congress convened, at which time he took the floor and exposed the entire sordid scheme. It collapsed in the glare of public knowledge.

Another famous incident in Vest's life was his eulogy of "Old Drum," the hound dog, in a damage suit in Warrensburg. A statue outside the city commemorates that speech.

Vest died in Sweet Springs in 1904.

The Citizens Committee for Conservation campaign to get a soft drink tax on the November ballot is sailing along in West Missouri, with the Fourth Congressional District exceeding its goal nicely.

M. K. Chapman of Clinton reports that 18,856 signatures have been obtained on petitions in the district, exceeding the goal of 15,292 by 3,564.

John Rose, the Pettis County CCC chairman, says he has exceeded his goal as well, collecting more than 1,600 signatures.

The proposed tax to finance an expanded conservation program in Missouri will be on the November ballot, once all the petitions are certified by the secretary of state.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Grother, Jr., Route 2, have hailed the work of YARC — Youth Association for Retarded Children. YARC recently took clients of the Pettis County Sheltered Workshop bowling on a couple of days, and also to a movie.

This is strictly a volunteer effort, and the Grothers think it is commendable that teenagers would give up their time for this kind of work. So do we.

Ted Lightner invented the Lightner slam double a long time ago. It is a fine bid but like all bids, whether good, bad or indifferent, it is frequently abused.

East's double clearly called for a lead of a heart, the suit bid by dummy. If East had kept still West would probably have opened a spade—the unbid suit. South would have to take an immediate finesse and could complain about bad luck.

It wasn't difficult. Just a matter of counting to 12 tricks by means of a play known as a dummy reversal.

West continued with hearts. South ruffed and played the ace of diamonds and a diamond to the king. When both opponents followed he was ready to complete the dummy reversal.

He ruffed another heart in his hand and entered dummy with the queen of clubs. Then he ruffed dummy's last heart with his last trump; entered dummy with the ace of spades; discarded his last spade on dummy's last trump. Then the clubs.

It should be noted that South would have had to fall back on the spade finesse if trumps had broken 4-1 and

S-C Tigers Roll Over Clinton

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

Unimpressive ... well, yes ... and then again ... no. Although Smith-Cotton rolled over Clinton 107-25, in the Tigers' opening outdoor track meet of the season Thursday in Jennie Jaynes Stadium, it was by no means an impressive performance.

Then again, it wasn't a victory that track coach Larry York, who is in his first year as the Tigers' head mentor, wouldn't take.

"We won by a wide margin, but some of the times, distances and heights were not real good," he said as he sat in the press box overlooking the cold, windy stadium.

"But we are progressing well and overall we did a fine job," he added. "The weather had a lot to do with the times and everything, and it's early in the season ... you can't go all out this early ... especially with the cool weather. And you don't want your squad to peak this early in the year either.

The Tigers won firsts in all 17 of the events with exception of the pole vault and the open quarter mile.

And, although many of the times, distances and heights, were a long way away from record performances, some impressive individual efforts stood out.

The best event of the day came late in the meet, when freshman Steve Fisher and junior David Moore battled all the way from the start to the finish in the two-mile run.

With the lead in the race switching throughout, neither runner got more than a two-step margin. Moore bolted out to the lead on the first lap, but alternated with his young Tiger teammate.

Moore staved off Fisher's sprint finish and brought home the first with a fine clocking of 10:03.5. Fisher was only :0.1 back in capturing second.

Jim Lovercamp gave the Bengals a sweep in the event, finishing third in a time of 10:43.4.

"It was a great race," said York, "... both of them have a good shot at breaking the school record before the year is out."

The current varsity mark in the two-mile is 9:57.4, set last season by Moore. And that's well within the reach of both runners.

In running second at 10:03.6, Fisher shattered the freshman two-mile standard by nearly 30 seconds, which was established by Moore also.

Tom Bloess, a junior, also turned in a fine performance winning both the 180-yard low and 120-yard high hurdle events. His clocking of :21.0 in the lows is only a second off the current record. Likewise, his :15.9 in the highs is just a second back of a record.

Aaron Hart captured two firsts by winning the shot put and discus events, with tosses of 52-3 1/2 and 126-11 respectively.

Bob Fingland prevailed in both the long jump and the triple jump, although the latter first-place finish did not count in the final team standings.

The long-legged senior jumper captured first in the long jump with a leap of 19-8. His triple jump of 41-2 was also tops. Clinton did not field an entry in that event, however, and York left the one-two-three finish out of the final score.

Other first-place finishes for the Tigers went to C. E. Baldwin, mile; Darro Byrd, 100-yard dash; Steve Cable, 880-yard run; Jim Blaine, 220-yard dash; Jay Weaver, high jump.

One of the ironic turnouts of the meet was the fact that senior high jumper Fred Knight, co-holder of the school record at 6-2, did not place. In fact, he failed to clear 5-8.

Jay Weaver's jump of 5-8 captured first place.

Jerry Tucker, who holds the Jennie Jaynes Stadium high jump record at 6-1 1/2, was also in that event, but cleared only 5-6 and placed third.

All three of the relay events, two-mile, 880 and 440, went to the Tigers. Clinton was not even close in any of those races.

Clinton's two first-place finishes came in the pole vault and the 440. Jack Phillips won the pole vault at a mere 11-6; John Schwartz headed S-C's Rick Bellmer across the finish of the 440 for the other Cardinals' first place. Schwartz' time was a slow :53.2.

Pat Curry, the Class L indoor state champion in the pole vault, had to skip Thursday's meet due to an injury. York felt that he should be ready early next week.

"We had a heavy workout Wednesday," said York as he got up to leave the press box, "and that held down our performances somewhat, in addition to the other factors I mentioned earlier."

The Tigers will next see action Tuesday, when they host Mexico in a dual meet at 4 p.m.

"We'll be well rested then ... we'll have to be ... you can't sell a conference member short in this league," he concluded.

Rojas, Otis, Mayberry Key Late Royals' Win

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) —

The Kansas City Royals knocked off the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday 5-4, coming from behind on ninth-inning hits by Cookie Rojas, Amos Otis and John Mayberry after two were out.

Pittsburgh had tied the score at 3-3 in the seventh on a double, single and sacrifice fly off Wally Bunker. Then the Pirates took a 4-3 lead in the eighth on Dave Cash's double, a ground out and Vic Davallo's sacrifice fly, also off Bunker.

Tom Burgmeier checked the Pirates in the top of the ninth, setting up the comeback rally.

Rojas started it with a single, his third hit of the game. Otis drove him home with the tying run on a double to right center.

Then Mayberry singled to right for the winning run.

Burgmeier got credit for the victory. Dave Giusti was the loser.

The Royals were scheduled to play Cincinnati today at Tampa, Fla.

The Royals shipped four players to the minor leagues, reducing the squad to 28. Sent to Sarasota were pitcher Steve Busby, catcher Dennis Paepke, infielders Jose Martinez and Rich Severson.

Rookies Shine for O's

AP Says Baltimore, Oakland Virtually Sure Picks in AL

NEW YORK (AP) — No matter what you read elsewhere, there is no guarantee whatsoever that the Baltimore Orioles and Oakland A's will repeat as American League division champions this year.

After all, there could be a strike, you know.

That's about the only thing that could block these two power-packed teams from the swift completion of their appointed rounds.

How do you cope with the Orioles, who start out with four 20-game winners—lefties Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar and right-handers Pat Dobson and Jim Palmer. The answer is you don't cope with them. You just do the best you can trying to beat the rest of the guys out for second place.

The Birds are so well-stocked with player talent that they were able to dispatch aging Frank Robinson to Los Angeles and, except for the absence of his retired number, they'll hardly notice he's gone.

The Birds traded Robinson so that they'd have room for young Don Baylor, who's graduating from Rochester of the International League. But Baylor still has to wait in line for an outfield job. Stacked ahead of him are holdovers Don Buford, Merv Rettenmund and Paul Blair.

Bobby Grich, another outstanding prospect also moving up from the minors, has a similar problem. To win a job, he only has to beat out Brooks Robinson at third, Mark Belanger at shortstop, Dave Johnson at second or Boog Powell at first.

That means a season of watching for the two prize rookies and another season of winning for the Orioles.

In the West, Vida Blue or not, the A's seem too, too strong. Owner Charles O. Finley, a well-known insurance man, took out a pitching policy against Blue's holdout by acquiring right-hander Denny McLain.

He joins a staff that includes 20-game winner Catfish Hunter, Ken Holtzman, grabbed from the Chicago Cubs over the winter, and holdovers Blue Moon Odom and Chuck Dobson, who both had arm problems late last year.

Add Blue to that cast—Finley would love to—and the A's have one of the strongest pitching staffs in baseball.

The runs will come from solid hitters like Sal Bando, Reggie Jackson, Joe Rudi and Mike Epstein. Dick Green and Bert Campaneris make the A's solid up the middle and Gene Tenace and Dave Duncan are two capable receivers.

It all adds up to another coast-to-coast playoff with the Orioles the likely AL champions for a fourth consecutive year.

Billy Martin, always the optimist, thinks his Detroit Tigers have enough oomph to overtake the Orioles in the East. Call it wishful thinking.

The Tigers have some solid talent like Dick, McAuliffe, Mickey Stanley, Willie Horton, and Bill Freehan. But their pitching is questionable after workhorse Mickey Lolich and Joe Coleman.

Detroit's most important drawbacks are also the club's biggest assets—Al Kaline and Norm Cash. Both are 37 and could wilt in the summer's heat. If they do, so will Detroit.

Chicago's improving White Sox will be a factor in the West, especially if they ever get Dick Allen, formerly of Philadelphia, St. Louis and Los Angeles, to agree to play for them.

Allen's bat would certainly bolster an attack that gets most of its punch from home run champ Bill Melton, Rick Reichardt and Carlos May.

Stan Bansen, picked up from the Yankees, adds depth to a promising pitching staff headed by knuckler Wilber Wood, a 22-game winner last year.

New York is depending on two promising rookies, Rusty Torres in right field and Ron Blomberg at first base, as well as newcomer Rich McKenney, picked up from the White Sox at third.

The most important addition for the Yankees, though, may be reliever Sparky Lyle who must pick up a bullpen that slumped badly last year.

Bobby Murcer, Roy White and Thurman Munson give the Yanks some professional hitters and Fritz Peterson and Mel Stottlemyre are better than average pitchers.

Kansas City, second in the West last year, may slip a bit this season. The Royals have one of the American League's outstanding young players in center fielder Amos Otis and the speed he and little Freddie Patek provide gives the Royals plenty of zip.

Bullpen partners Ted Abernathy and Tom Burgmeier combined for 40 saves last year and starters Dick Drago, Mike Hedlund and Paul Splittorff could get some help from rookie Monty Montgomery this time out.

Second baseman Cookie Rojas and third baseman Paul Schaal both enjoyed their best big league seasons last year and will need to do just as well this time if the Royals are to make a dent in the West Division race.

Boston came up with versatile Tommy Harper and pitchers Marty Pattin and Lew Krausse in a big winter trade with Milwaukee. And the Red Sox still have some talented hitters like Carl Yastrzemski, Rico Petrocelli, Reggie Smith and Danny Cater, grabbed from the Yankees.

Texas has a new team called the Rangers and Cleveland has an old team called the Indians. Neither figures to make much of a fuss in either East or West Divisions.

The picks:

Bengals Get Top Seed In Sub-district Tourney

Smith-Cotton has been seeded number one in the Missouri State High School Activities Association's Sub-district 15 Baseball Tournament, which opens April 24 in Liberty Park Stadium.

Eleven teams are in the playoffs this year, which will see the winner advance to the district championship, also slated for Liberty Park Stadium.

S-C, who was awarded a first-round bye in the competition, was followed in the seedings by Sweet Springs, two; LaMonte, three; and Cole Camp, four.

Green Ridge and Windsor open the tourney at 1 p.m. on April 24; Smithton and Glasgow tangle in another first-round game at 3:30 p.m. that day.

On April 25, Sweet Springs and Leeton meet in the 1 p.m. opener; New Franklin and Stover are slated for a 3:30 p.m. game.

The quarterfinals, which sees S-C, Cole Camp, Lincoln and LaMonte already in them due to byes, are scheduled for April 26 and 27; the semifinals will be played on May 1, with the Sub-district championship contest slated for May 3.

Costello Says Pride Did It

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"What it comes down to is pride," said Larry Costello, coach of the Milwaukee Bucks.

The Bucks had it Thursday night—but they also had Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

The 7-foot-2 center was the difference as Milwaukee trimmed the Golden State Warriors 118-93 and squared the National Basketball Association Western Conference playoffs at 1-1.

Jabbar scored 25 points and swept 22 rebounds as the Bucks came back to beat the Warriors after an upset loss to the same team two nights earlier.

"We did a lot of things differently than we did on Tuesday night," said Costello, whose team was beaten 117-106 at Milwaukee in the opener of the seven-game series. "We played better defense. Our rebounding was better. And Jabbar was great."

The Los Angeles Lakers took a 2-0 lead in their semifinal series by beating the Chicago Bulls 131-124 in Thursday's only other playoff action.

The NBA playoffs continue tonight with the New York Knicks opening best-of-seven semifinal test with the Baltimore Bullets and the Atlanta Hawks hosting the Boston Celtics. Boston holds a 1-0 edge in that Eastern series.

The American Basketball Association starts its post-season playoffs this afternoon with the Floridians visiting the Virginia Squires in Eastern Division semifinals. New York takes on Kentucky in a night game in the East. Dallas plays at Utah and Denver visits Indiana in the West semifinals.

Along with Jabbar's fine game, the Bucks got a good one out of Curtis Perry, who had 22 points and 9 rebounds. Perry only scored a point in Tuesday night's loss to the Warriors.

"I guess I was a little nervous the other night," said Perry. "But we've beaten the Warriors during the regular season, so there's no reason to get tight right now. I just took a few more shots and they fell in for a change."

Nate Thurmond led Golden State with 32 points, but a big dropoff in production came from Jeff Mullins and Jim Barnett. Mullins and Barnett, who combined for 59 points Tuesday, only had 24 Thursday night.

"Barnett had 30 the other night and only 10 tonight," said Costello. "The reason was that he didn't get the easy baskets the second time. We were getting back and rebounding better. He's a guy you can't let drive, but he's not a great outside shooter."

Barnett said that nervousness caused him to have a bad game.

"I don't like all the publicity of being a hero one night and worrying about not letting my team down the next," said Barnett. "After Tuesday night's game, I couldn't sleep until 6 a.m. the next morning."

The Bucks took advantage of Barnett's cold shooting to take a 27-17 lead with 3½ minutes left in the first quarter. They outscored the Warriors 12-1 at one stretch.

Milwaukee opened a 43-27 lead early in the second quarter before Golden State made its only real threat, closing to within 51-46. But Lucius Allen and Abdul-Jabbar connected to give the Bucks a 55-47 halftime lead and they opened it to 90-67 after three periods.

Los Angeles rallied in the final four minutes and scored 10 straight points to beat Chicago. Wilt Chamberlain led the rally, scoring 12 of his 24 points in the final period. The towering Laker center seized 21 rebounds in the game.

Jerry West had 37 points and Gail Goodrich scored 32 to lead Los Angeles' point production. Bob Love led the Chicago offense with 26 points before he left the game with 5:31 left after injuring his ankle.

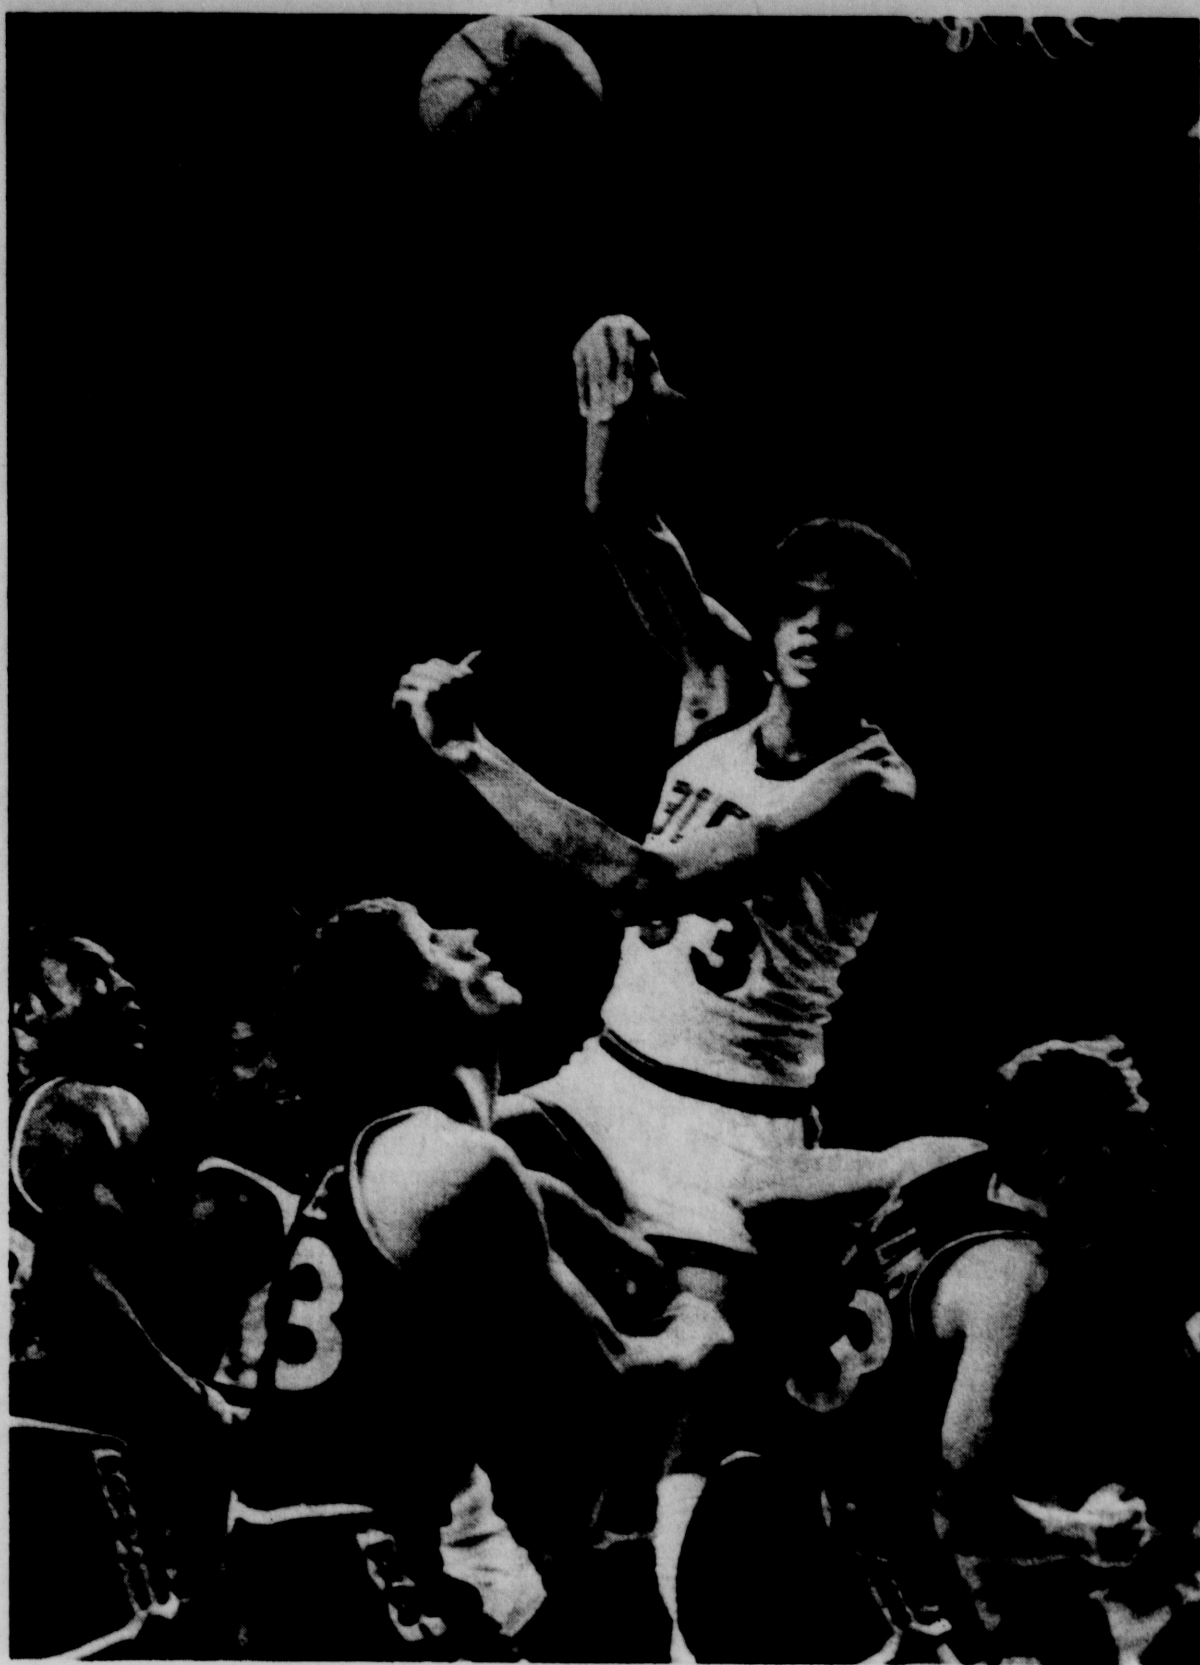

The Bulls also played the last period without forward Chet Walker, who scored 18 points in the first three periods and then apparently aggravated a leg injury.

Bob Love of the Bulls sprained his left ankle and precautionary X-rays will be taken in Chicago today.

Chicago also operated without its regular center, Tom Boerwinkle, who was sent home for treatment of a knee injury.

Threading the Defense

Milwaukee's Kareem Jabbar went high over the Golden State Warriors' Jeff Mullins, right, and Clyde Lee, center, as he passed the ball off to a teammate during the opening period of play

Stewart Says Loop May Use 30-second Clock Next Year

MEXICO, Mo. (AP)—The Big Eight Conference may adopt the 30-second clock in league basketball games next season. Coach Norm Stewart of Missouri told the Mexico Ledger in an exclusive interview that while there has been "no formal announcements made yet" the league is "considering using the 30-second clock on a one-year experimental basis next season."

"Before we can go ahead with the proposal, it must be approved by the Big Eight board and the national rules committee. If it is approved, it will be strictly on a trial basis for one whole season." No major collegiate conference now uses the 30-second clock. The Big Eight will discuss the proposal April 18 and 19 at its conference meeting at Boulder, Colo.

Should the proposal be adopted, it would clear the way for a 30-second clock to be used in both college and high school basketball, the Ledger said. The rules committee sets the standards for both levels of competition.

The 30-second clock is designed to reduce stalling and put more offense in the game. Professional basketball already uses a clock.

Stewart told the Ledger that the zone defense, outlawed in the professional leagues, would not be banned in college basketball.

"The 30-second clock would not have much effect on college ball except to reduce stalling at the end of a game," Stewart said. "Statistics show now that college teams take much less than 30 seconds to get off a shot. I am in favor of the proposal."

Stewart indicated the 30-second clock would cause changes on the high school level.

"It would improve the high school coaching," Stewart said. "It would put a premium on passing."

Stewart coached Missouri to its best season in the school's history this year.

Roy Campanella Is Critically Ill

VALHALLA, N.Y. (AP)—Roy Campanella, three times the National League's Most Valuable Player during his 10-year major league career and a member of Baseball's Hall of Fame, was reported in critical condition but improving today at Grasslands Hospital.

The 50-year-old Campanella was hospitalized Thursday night after police in nearby Greenburgh, N.Y., said "he suffered some sort of a seizure at home."

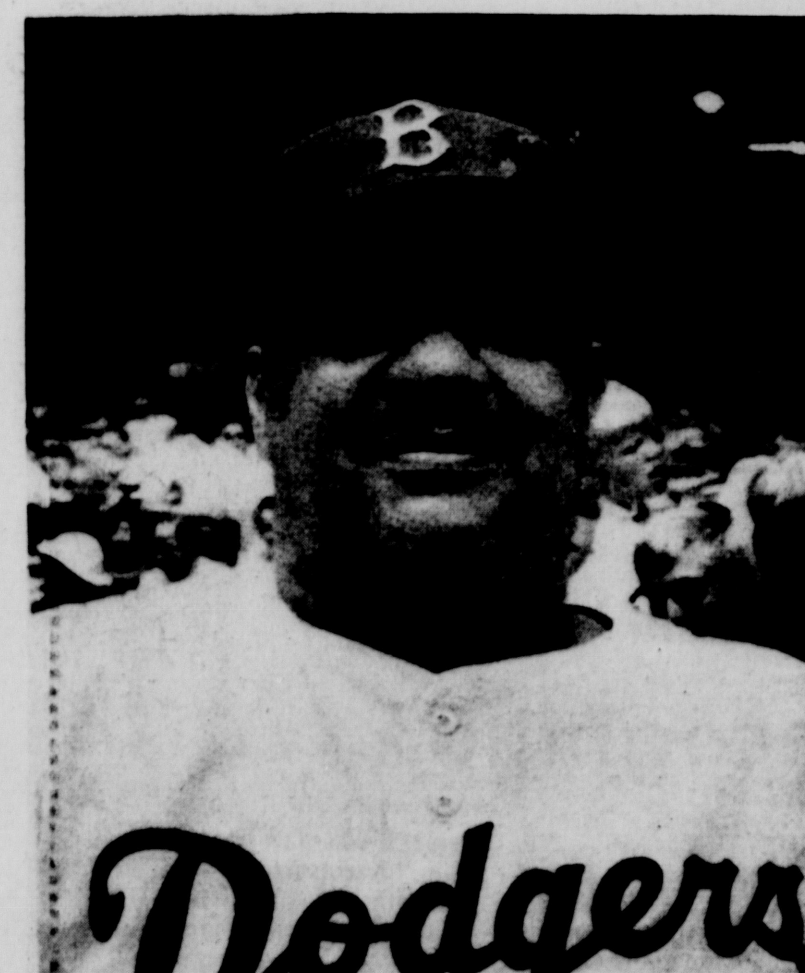

A police officer said, "I sent my emergency vehicle there (to Campanella's house) and they administered oxygen to him and then conveyed him to Grasslands."

Dr. W.R. Dalziel, the associate director of the hospital, said that when Campanella was first brought in he was unconscious. But the doctor later said that the former Brooklyn Dodger catcher had regained consciousness but still was critical. "He has shown improvement since he was admitted," said the doctor.

Dr. Dalziel would not disclose any further information on Campanella, but said that two daily bulletins would be issued on his condition as long as he remains in the hospital.

Campanella, who starred for the Dodgers from 1948-1957, has been confined to a wheel chair since a crippling auto accident in Jan. 28, 1958 that left him paralyzed.

Errors Cost State Fair Twinbill Loss: 9-4, 4-2

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — State Fair Community College's baseball record slipped to 0-6 with a doubleheader loss to Drury College, here, Thursday afternoon.

Drury cashed in on 10 Roadrunner errors in the opening contest and captured a 9-4 verdict. Randy Kidwell, a freshman righthander, was tagged with the loss. He allowed only five hits, suffering the loss on the team's errors.

Mike Robertson and Mitch Silvers collected two hits each for State Fair. One of Silvers' hits was a 400-foot homer.

Terry Green was the winner for the Panthers.

Jim Coffelt held Drury to only five hits in the second game, but the Roadrunners committed five more errors, spoiling his hurling performance and lost, 4-2. SFCC had six hits in the loss.

Mark Thoenen was the winner.

The Roadrunners were scheduled to play a twinbill at Point Lookout, Mo., Friday afternoon against the School of the Ozarks.

Saturday they face Evangel College of Springfield in another doubleheader.

Ali Predicts Win in Fifth

TOKYO (AP) — Muhammad Ali predicted at today's weigh-in he would stop Mac Foster in the fifth round of their 15-round heavyweight fight Saturday.

The former world heavyweight champ was in his best boastful form as he shouted to Foster "round five" while standing on the scales. He weighed 226 pounds, the second heaviest in his career. He weighed 227 pounds last November when he outpointed Buster Mathis.

Foster, a former Marine from Fresno, Calif., who tipped the scales at 211½, took no sass from Ali.

"I'm going to show you how the West was won. I'm going to come out blasting," he told the former champ. Ali shot back "I'll give you until noon to get out of town."

That was a reference to the noon starting time, arranged so that the bout can be seen live on closed-circuit television in the United States and Canada at 10 p.m., EST Friday night.

It is Japan's first heavyweight fight and will be held at the 15,000-seat Martial Arts Hall. Tickets are scaled from $10 to $100. Ali is guaranteed $200,000 and Foster $80,000.

Ali, whose goal is a return title bout with heavyweight champ Joe Frazier, arrived seven minutes late for weigh-in clad in a red, short sleeves sports shirt and blue slacks. Foster, wearing a dark suit and a black hat with the brim pulled low over his eyes, had been waiting 10 minutes.

MU Tigers Sign Barton Co. Soph

GREAT BEND, Kan. (AP) — Jim Greene, Barton County Junior College sophomore, signed a football letter of intent today to attend the University of Missouri.

MU Coach Al Onofrio said Greene, of Stafford, Kan., would probably be used as a wide receiver with the Tigers. He is also a member of the junior college's track team.

Quarterback Jerry Tagge of unbeaten Nebraska had only four passes intercepted in 12 games last season.

Black Muslims Live To Sacrifice While Their Leaders Live in Luxury

Saviour's Day

Several thousand Black Muslims from around the country, and visitors, attend the annual Saviour's Day convention in Chicago. It is held on February 26, the birthday of W.C. Fard, who established the Nation of Islam in the late 1920s. He is referred to as Allah: Muhammad, his apostle, is the cult's present leader, Elijah Muhammad. (AP)

CHICAGO (AP) — Elijah Muhammad teaches that blacks should help themselves and live simply so they can give more money to the movement. Yet he and his advisers live in handsome homes and have abundant resources.

His followers are Black Muslims and his cult the Nation of Islam, but they do not follow the creed of Moslems, who believe in Islam, the faith founded by Mohammed.

Elijah Muhammad preaches black supremacy; he prays to a man who identified himself as white.

He denounces whites as devils and bedevils blacks who don't accept his dogma.

Those who do accept, attracted by the apparent prosperity and strength of the Nation of Islam, by the promise of self-improvement, perhaps by the slogan, "freedom, justice, equality," are asked to follow an austere discipline. Members are supposed to attend at least three meetings a week, recite prayers five times a day, eat only one meal a day, abstain from drugs, alcohol, tobacco, gambling, illicit sex and soul food; they must pay dues plus frequent—and sizable—assessments; they must be clean, cooperative, obedient.

Estimates of the number of members range from 1.5 million by Walter Turner, a non-Muslim, who is Muhammad's director of press relations, down to 7,500 (by police). The Muslims keep their enrollment secret along with many details of their activities.

Muhammad talks—by tape—on radio stations across the country for a half-hour every week, and he appears on television in Washington, D.C. He operates 56 temples in 52 cities (some have only a few dozen members). His weekly tabloid newspaper, "Muhammad Speaks" reports a paid circulation of 529,930—at 20 cents a copy. He distributes the paper from Chicago with the help of the Nation's Super-Constitutional plane and the zeal of members who have to pay for copies they can't sell.

Muhammad's influence is also projected through his management of many properties, including more than 5,000 acres of farmland and herds of cattle in Michigan, Georgia and Alabama (where Muslim property has been attacked by whites). In Chicago alone, Muhammad oversees the operation of two restaurants, a supermarket, clothing store, dry-cleaners, bakery and several other ventures.

The properties are owned by several corporations, including Progressive Land Developers, United Dynamics and Good Foods. The officers are members of the hierarchy of the Nation of Islam, but incorporation papers do not show any ownership by members as a whole. The president of the Nation of Islam and the other corporations is a son-in-law of Muhammad, Raymond Sharrieff, 53.

Hassan and Sharrieff, who are related, have long worked with Elijah Muhammad, who bestowed their Holy Names. But the most important question that one could ask, says Muhammad, is, "Who is God?" Muhammad's answer: Wallace D. Fard, who, Muhammad maintains, appointed him Messenger. "I was surprised," he allowed recently, "because I didn't think I was qualified."

Fard, who was once convicted for violating narcotics and bootlegging laws, regularly identified himself as a white or a Maori, a native New Zealander of Polynesian stock, born in 1891. When his common-law wife, a white, gave birth in Los Angeles, Fard was listed on the certificate as white. When he entered San Quentin prison in 1926, he again was recorded as white.

Although Fard disappeared about 1934, Muhammad asserts that Fard speaks to him from time to time and even appeared to him in a vision a few years ago. Is it really Fard's voice?

Definitely, replied the 74-year-old Muhammad in a recent interview in his 19-room home on Chicago's South Side. He said he recognizes Fard's voice because he spent "three years and near four months with him. . . . He's very much alive. He will be alive probably for 400 years yet."

An hour later, when Muhammad was requested to pose for a photo below a portrait of Fard, Muhammad declined, saying that if he were to do so, it might seem that he was trying "to make myself be some kind of a equal."

Muhammad, who has light skin and fine features, leaned his slight frame forward to catch a question. His health has been fragile: he's afflicted with asthma, and he keeps a home in Phoenix.

Q—Who is next in line to become Messenger?

A—Well, that is up to Allah. I can't answer no such question.

Muhammad is building a mansion for himself next door to the one he now lives in, also four homes across the street—at a total cost that he has put at about $2 million. "Muhammad Speaks" on Feb. 25: "There is some very foolish and irrational talk being spread about the Honorable Elijah Muhammad taking the money from his poor followers and giving it to his family and top laborers and depriving his other followers. . . . Some of you criticize his use of good homes and luxury cars. . . . You who speak against his building fine homes do so through envy. . . ."

Q—Who will live in those homes over there?

A—Well, we have not quite decided yet. Maybe (chuckling) the fellow that have the biggest pocketbook.

Other replies by Muhammad: Q—Now you personally are a millionaire?

A—Man, if I had a million dollars you wouldn't have time to talk with me. I'd be too busy trying to find out where I'm going to put this million dollars, where is the best place to spend it. . . .

Q—Do you really think white people are devils?

A—I don't think it. . . . I know it.

Q—What is behind these shootings in Baton Rouge where two blacks and two deputies were shot in a disturbance police said involved Muslims?

A—I wasn't there and I don't know really how it began. . . . Christians been shootin' Christians all my life. . . . so I don't see why this should be anything of news. . . . that the Muslims shot someone or someone shot Muslims.

Q—Some Muslims, or former Muslims, wonder why you employ so many white people.

A—Because I can get along with both, and the white people know their country, know their government, know their buildings, their material. And if my people would build those houses over there, they would have to buy the material from. . . . white people. . . .

The Black Muslims teach that the black man is the "original" man, that some 6,700 years ago a scientist named Yakub grafted the white man from the black man, that all "so-called Negroes are born Muslims, whether they know it or not," that blacks should have their own territory in the United States and live separately from whites (Muhammad lives on a block that's largely white), that the Bible is poison. Muhammad teaches that the hog, too, is poison. His book, "How to Eat to Live" also says chicken is "not fit" to eat, although his restaurants and groceries carry it. . . .

Muhammad often prophesies the collapse of America, but he continues to expand. The Nation of Islam recently bought, for $4 million, an immense Chicago church for conversion into a mosque. The Muslims intend to move into it in May, after having paid $2 million in cash, the other half to be paid in monthly installments of at least $25,000.

That the Muslims—or some of them—do have large amounts of money is evident: Muhammad's son-in-law Sharrieff was robbed of $23,000 in his home two years ago by gunmen who forced their way inside. Last August, Muhammad himself reported to the police the theft of some $20,000 in cash from his home.

The members of the hierarchy drive expensive cars, and some have more than one. A Nigerian scholar, E. U. Essien-Udom, quotes Muhammad as telling him 10 years ago: "The reason I drive a Cadillac is obvious. Negroes place a high value on things like this. Personally, I would prefer any little old car. . . . But if I did so, Negroes would begin to say, 'Islam made him poor'."

Another member of the hierarchy who seems to have abundant resources is Herbert Muhammad. Besides his executive position with the Nation of Islam and affiliated corporations, he also manages boxer Muhammad Ali, (Elijah Muhammad suspended Ali three years ago—"he ran after money too much"—and revoked his Muslim name; Ali still is not restored to membership.) Questioned about his various interests, Herbert replied: "The Nation of Islam has the No. 1 place in my life and in my heart."

Herbert and his wife, Antonia, who is a personal secretary to her father-in-law, live with their children in a two-story home in Chicago's South Shore district. He also owns two apartments.

Whatever their outside interests, the Muslim faith has been commended. George Anastaplo, a author of "The Constitutional," says, "I'm inclined to see the movement as bringing more good than bad. Not only has it frightened some whites into recognizing the plight of Negroes, but the very program of the Black Muslims has much to commend it: the emphasis is placed on clean living, financial responsibility, self-discipline and consequently self-respect."

Another white Chicagoan, Alderman Leon Despres, observes: "The Nation of Islam seems to know how to help alienated, criminal black men, tough criminals, turn into hard-working members of society. It takes men with very badly damaged egos, shattered self-esteem and degraded images of themselves and builds them up."

Professor John Hope Franklin, of the University of Chicago, says of the Muslims: "I've come to admire and respect their entrepreneurial activities, their agricultural, commercial and journalistic enterprises." Dr. Franklin, a black, notes, "They seem terribly interested in the careful rearing of their children, who are well-mannered and well-groomed."

Probably the most generous evaluations has come from

Black Muslim Leader

Elijah Muhammad, 74-year-old leader of the Black Muslims, is pictured in his Chicago home. Muhammad claims to have been appointed Messenger of the Nation of Islam by Allah, as he refers to W.C. Fard who founded the cult. With Muhammad is his son-in-law, Raymond Sharrieff, corporate president of the Muslims and of other related bodies. (AP) black author James Baldwin in "The Fire Next Time." "Elijah Muhammad has been able to do what generations of welfare workers and committees and resolutions and reports and play-grounds have failed to do: to heal and redeem drunks and junkies, to convert people who have come out of prison and to keep them out, to make men chaste and women virtuous, and to invest both the male and female with a pride and serenity that hang about them like an unending light." The ratio of Muslims among blacks in prisons approximates one in 20.

Other blacks have not been so kind toward the Nation of Islam. When Justice Thurgood Marshall was general counsel for the NAACP, he said the Nation of Islam was "run by a bunch of thugs." Ralph Bunche called them a "cynical and irresponsible group exploiting the Negro's unhappy status," and Dr. Martin Luther King called the Muslims "just as dangerous as white supremacists."

Muhammad, himself, is often more critical of blacks than whites. He has written in his newspaper: "Allah has made known that the enemy of the Black Nation is the black professional class. Of these, the preacher is the worst enemy of the truth of our salvation." On Feb. 18, he wrote: "My black brothers and black sisters, you will hate me for the love of the devil. You would kill me, if you could get to me through the ring of protection that Allah has thrown around me. . . . The devil respects me; it is you, black brother, who disrespects me."

One source of inspiration for the Muslims' faith was Timothy Drew, who started the first Moorish-Science Temple in 1913 in Newark. He contended that all Negroes are Asiatics of Moorish descent. Male disciples wore red fezzes. Drew renamed himself Noble

Drew Ali, and when his movement grew, a former butler moved Drew's furniture out of Drew's Chicago headquarters and proclaimed himself the grand sheik. The usurper was murdered; Drew was arrested but released on bond and soon died under mysterious circumstances. That was in 1929.

Enter W. D. Fard, the man whom Muhammad deified. Moving to Detroit from San Quentin, Fard worked as a door-to-door peddler, posed as an Arab from Mecca, reportedly described himself as the reincarnation of Noble Drew Ali and established the Nation of Islam. He began to replace his followers' "slave names" with their "original names"—usually for $10.

Elijah Muhammad says he first met Fard, also known as Professor Ford and Farad Mohammed, in Detroit on July 4, 1930. The cult came to notice in 1932 after one member sacrificed another. In 1933, Detroit police arrested Fard as "chief of the Voodoo Cult," and authorities told him to leave. He soon dropped from sight.

It was Detroit, too, where Muhammad was first arrested. In 1934 he was convicted of keeping his children out of public school and sending them to the newly founded University of Islam. He was placed on probation. A quarrel in his own circle soon prompted him to move to Chicago, where he promptly began "fishing for the dead," as Muslims call recruiting.

Muhammad, who has been involved in paternity suits, was imprisoned for draft evasion. Also imprisoned for that offense in World War II, were his son, Emmanuel, and Sharrieff, who is Supreme Captain of the Fruit of Islam, a semi-military group. It provides bodyguards for Elijah Muhammad and others. Another of Muhammad's six sons, Wallace, 38, testified he was a minister but was sent to prison for draft evasion in 1961. He later quit the movement, charging his father with immorality, mismanaging the organization's financial affairs and betraying the teachings of Allah, but then begged forgiveness and was accepted back.

Another son, Akbar, 32, abandoned his father's "concocted religious teachings, which are far from and in most cases diametrically opposed to Islam. . . ." in 1965 while studying Islamic law in Cairo. He is now the director of black studies at Vanderbilt University. His wife is an Egyptian, and he's a Moslem—not a Black Muslim.

Other Muslims who have broken away and assailed the leader have met different fates. Malcolm Little joined the Muslims in prison in 1947, then obtained his "X." Malcolm X became Muhammad's chief spokesman, but after a nasty dispute, he left the movement in 1964 and established his own.

After departing, Malcolm X blistered his former mentor: "I totally reject Elijah Muhammad's philosophy, which he has labeled 'Islam' only to fool and misuse gullible people just as he fooled and misused me." Less than a year after the split, Malcolm X was assassinated. Convicted of the crime were two Black Muslims and a man believed to be one.

Last year, about 25 Muslims walked out of Muhammad's Temple No. 2 in Chicago with the complaint that not enough money collected from members was reaching poor blacks. One of the dissidents was shot to death in Chicago, and another, who went to Oakland, Calif., was murdered there. Last October, someone fired at Muhammad's chief deputy, Sharrieff, and nicked him.

What's the outlook for the Nation of Islam? Much, of course, depends on how strongly the leaders pursue their business interests and, especially, who will next step forward to assert that he hears the voice of Fard—and has the power to enforce his claim.

Guard Recruiting Drive Failing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drive to double black strength in the National Guard is lagging badly at midpoint.

The National Guard Bureau reports that the recruiting campaign which began last fall netted a gain of only 961 black Guardsmen through February. This means the Army Guard and the Air Guard must attract an additional 5,000 blacks before next September to reach the announced goal of about 11,800 black Guardsmen.

Guard officials said an $80,000 advertising campaign designed to appeal to black youths did not get fully geared up until recently. These officials are banking on this campaign, featuring TV and radio commercials, to boost recruiting momentum.

The Guard believes, too, that a new Pentagon-proposed enlistment bonus of $600 would help spur recruiting of both white and black youths, if Congress passes the legislation.

The Guard is under strong pressure from top Pentagon officials such as defense manpower chief Roger T. Kelley, who has said the low level of "minority participation in Guard units. . . is a blot on an otherwise bright performance. The Vietnam war spawned new waiting lists of young men hoping to get into the Guard to avoid the draft. But these lists have now evaporated and the Guard has more than 23,000 spaces for new recruits. In the past, Pentagon and Guard officials have complained they were unable to attract blacks. Last fall, Maj. Gen. Francis S. Greenleaf, National Guard Bureau chief, asserted that "Guard leadership must work closely with black leadership" at every level.

An example of this cooperation was a meeting between

Gov. Jimmie Carter of Georgia and 15 black leaders, including the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The Guard has undertaken a number of innovations, including creation of racially mixed teams of Guard officers and noncommissioned officers which will be sent from Washington to check on state Guard compliance with equal-opportunity requirements.

According to Bureau records, the efforts since last fall have raised black membership in the Guard to 6,818 men as of Feb. 29. The figure was 5,857 last June 30.

At that stage, blacks represented about 1.2 per cent of the 487,864 Guardsmen. Even the goal of about 11,800 blacks still would leave the Guard well below the 10-per-cent ratio of blacks to the total U.S. population.

on the record $144.3 million appropriation for common schools and sent it on to Gov. David Hall. The Senate completed action on the $81.7 million higher education bill and the $18.7 million appropriation for the Highway Department. The House is expected to take final action on those two bills today.

There were fireworks amid the normal clearing up chores on appropriations bills and such on Thursday.

The House passed and sent to the governor a bitterly debated bill to clear the way for a public trust to be formed to build a tollroad from near Ponca City to the Port of Catoosa. The amendment to a bill passed last year was designed to make the trust more attractive to prospective bond buyers. The road would be financed independently of the state by sale of revenue bonds. A provision was included, however, that the state could invest in the bonds.

Tempers Match Calendar

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma's legislators gather to close the 33rd session of the legislature, today with some tempers matching the calendar in its day-to-day shortening.

The Senate meets at 10 a.m. The House meets at 11. Indications are the session can be adjourned sine die by late afternoon—unless an unforeseen fight develops.

The legislature worked late Thursday as it has many days this week. Adjournment would come on the 52nd legislative day. The shortest previous session was back in 1909.

The House completed action

AL Fills Ump List

BOSTON (AP) — The American League has its full complement of 24 umpires with the addition Thursday of Henry Morganweck, 39, of Teaneck, N.J., and Jim Evans, 25, of Austin, Texas.

Morganweck worked last season in the International League and Evans umpired in the American Association.

Request U.S. Recognition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the unofficial Bangladesh mission to Washington says U.S. recognition of the new nation would help ease the bitterness over American opposition to independence for the 70 million Bengali people.

Enayap Karim, a former high-ranking Pakistani diplomat who defected to the Bangladesh movement last year, said in an interview that his country has noted hopeful signs that U.S. recognition is imminent.

Diplomatic sources say Washington will announce recognition within a week.

"We will be very happy to see this great super power recognize Bangladesh," said Karim. "In the past the U.S. attitude toward us has not been considered favorable by our people."

"When the West Pakistani military regime was trying to crush our independent struggle they used U.S. arms. There was no public expression of disapproval by the American government from March 25 last year when suppression of the Bengalis began until last December when we gained freedom," Karim said.

Karim emphasized that U.S. recognition and economic assistance to his famine-threatened, financially shaky country would help to correct the record.

"After recognition, both of our countries can develop their relations to mutual benefit on the basis of strict observance of non-interference in internal affairs, respect for sovereignty and by efforts to promote the peace, stability and economic development in the area."

The United States is the major contributor to the United Nations humanitarian relief program which is seeking to amass $600 million from all countries to help the victims of war and flood in Bangladesh, formerly known as East Pakistan. The U.S. contribution totals $114.67 million.

American observers who inspected the country say one million persons were killed and 20 million pushed out of their homes by the combination of suppression, civil war and natural calamities over the past 16 months.

Spraying Silences Squeaking Shoes

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My answer is for Sandy, who has squeaky shoes. Try a light oil, such as suggested for shavers, sewing machines and cameras. Be careful not to drip it on the shoes' uppers. Oil the EDGE of the SOLE completely from heel to toe and drip a little bit on the arch and on the spot if you know where it is. One or at the most two applications should do it. — PHYLLIS

DEAR POLLY — I think Sandy could stop the squeaking in her shoes by spraying them with an all-purpose silicon lubricant. These may be bought at any auto supply store and have worked beautifully for me. — JEAN

DEAR POLLY — The answer to Sandy's problem of squeaking shoes is an easy one — if you know it. I learned this answer just a few minutes before I was to be escorted down the aisle at my son's wedding. If the shoes are patent leather, just rub a bit of petroleum jelly on the part or parts that squeak. This is usually across the toes where the shoe bends, but I have been told that this also works on the soles. This is an immediate remedy as I well know. It saved a big day for me. — SARAH

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I have two pairs of black patent leather shoes that are still good except that they have lost their shine. Can someone tell me anything I can do to restore the shine? — PATRICIA

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with hosiery manufacturers who have neither the variety nor the colors in regular hose that they have in panty hose. I have found it impossible to buy really black hose or stretch hose with demi toes. In panty hose, yes. — MARIE

DEAR MARIE — I heartily agree with you. I do not like to wear panty hose and dark opaque colors are very hard, if not impossible, to buy in regular hose. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I am 77 and had a lot of trouble holding a toothbrush and my dentures at the same time. My daughter bought me a nail brush with a curved handle and this suits my purpose very nicely. No trouble brushing my teeth and no dropping them. — ELSIE Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Childish Prank Might Kill You

Dear Dr. Lamb — Please see if you can get a point across to someone. Isn't it true that if a person takes 10 deep breaths, and on the 10th another person squeezes his chest while he holds his breath, that the breath-holder will pass out because of the lack of oxygen? Isn't this dangerous?

Dear Reader — Yes, it is dangerous. This is a common childhood prank and there have been a few deaths recorded from it. I became particularly interested in this problem because of the studies I did in reference to fainting as a problem with pilots. Fainting is often not too serious in otherwise healthy people on the ground, but even in healthy people it can be exceedingly dangerous if they are flying jet aircraft.

The 10 deep breaths cause overventilation of the lungs which is called "hyperventilation." This causes the person to blow off more carbon dioxide than normal. Under these circumstances a person is already more prone to faint. Breath holding by itself can cause fainting and when the breath is held after hyperventilation it is more likely than ever to cause fainting. The squeezing on the chest increases the pressure within the lungs which further decreases the return of blood to the heart, which also contributes to fainting.

The real reason people faint with this problem is because the heart is not pumping out enough blood or it may even stop. The latter problem is most likely responsible for the deaths that have been reported with this childhood prank. I was able to demonstrate repeatedly that young healthy people who fainted would often have complete stopping of the heart beat without even an electrical impulse. Fortunately, in the work I did, all of these individual's hearts started beating again automatically, but of course these studies were done under carefully controlled medical supervision. I doubt very much that most of the people who do this trick realize that it can cause a person's heart to stop.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would like to know if a Pap test would detect cancer in any part of a person's body. If a person had cancer of the breast would that show up in the Pap test?

Dear Reader — No. Unfortunately not. The Pap test is strictly for the primary female organs. A person could have cancer of the breast, lung, liver or other parts of the body and this would have no effect on the Pap test.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)
Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Ann Landers

Ann Doesn't Agree With This Advice

Dear Ann Landers: I just read a very sensible article that says it is every wife's responsibility to nag her husband into good health, if she must. No woman, according to the author, is a good wife if she sits by silently while her husband drinks too much, eats too much, or smokes too much. She must nag, nag, nag. It's up to the wife to get her husband to see a doctor for an annual physical checkup. If he is on medication it's her job to see that he takes it.

It's also the wife's job to get her husband out of his easy chair and make him exercise. Most wives kill their husbands by preparing high calorie meals and providing them with snacks. Then they let the guy sit in a chair and watch TV until he falls asleep. This is what causes heart attacks.

Please tell women everywhere who love their husbands to nag them. It could add years to their lives. — Orlando

Dear Or: Who wants more years like that? Sorry, I don't agree. Nagging never kept anyone alive. It has, however, killed many marriages.

The man who eats too much, smokes too much and drinks too much must be given an incentive to cut out the gluttony.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you step aside for a few minutes and let me be Ann Landers? I wish someone had given ME the advice I am about to offer.

Here it is: If you plan to marry a man who has children by a previous marriage, take a good look at those kids and decide whether or not you'd be willing to take them into your home. Even if it seems like a remote possibility try to imagine what your life would be like with those kids under your roof.

The "impossible" just happened. My husband's ex-wife is in a sanitarium and her mother who was taking care of the kids had a stroke. I was told last night to get the bedroom ready because his children are coming to live with us.

Ann, I'm fit to be tied. The oldest is a boy, 10, a real hellcat. The middle one, another boy, age 7, looks as if he's going to be a carbon copy of his older brother. The baby is a girl, 5.

She still wets the bed and has a very limited vocabulary. I think she is retarded.

When I married Joe this wasn't in the cards, but it happened anyway. I've got to make the best of it, but my love for him just flew out the window. — Pittsburgh Lament

Dear Pitt: That was a funny kind of love, Lady.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the teen-ager whose parents had a miserable marriage and fought all the time was interesting because my parents are in the same leaky boat. That girl said she learned something valuable from her parents. Never get married.

I have a different point of view. I'm going to remember the lessons I learned at home and apply them to my own life. Both mom and dad are in the wrong. My mom usually starts the arguments because she wants attention. Dad ignores her. The only way she can get him to talk is by starting a fight. She knows just what will set him off and needles him until he blows his top. Then he says some awful thing to her and she's got him on the defensive.

When I listen to them I wonder if they were ever young once and in love. I wonder how they felt about each other when they got married. I wonder what happened in their lives to make them the way they are now. What do you think, Ann? — One Who Watches Dear O.W.W.: I think you've raised some interesting questions. Why don't you ask them?

Rare Interest receive a rare $20 Gold Coin

as interest

Now, while a limited supply lasts, you can receive a rare, U.S. MINT $20 Gold Piece, as interest in advance, when you save $1450.00 for 12 months.

You'll receive the highest rate of interest the law allows . . . IN GOLD . . . in advance. Should you desire to sell your gold coin during the term of your savings certificate, Sedalia Bank agrees, in writing, to re-purchase it for $75.00.

These coins have not been minted in the United States since 1932. They are valuable collector's items and make interesting and rare interest . . . to have, to hold, to show.

In the event of devaluation of the dollar, resulting in an increased value of gold coins, a larger deposit may be required by law. We reserve the right to alter or terminate this offer at any time.

This is a special and unusual offer which we feel deserves your interest.

Study Shows Fluoridation Success—Costs Are Said Minimal

By BOB SHEUE
Democrat-Capitol Staff Writer

Foes of fluoridation boast many claims about the alleged ill effects of fluoridated waters. They quote portions of statements from medical research articles appearing in various journals and magazines. They claim the studies about which these articles concern themselves show adverse reaction to fluoridation, either through bone malformation, hardening of the arteries, respiratory failure, stunted growth, poisoning, falling blood pressure, aggravation of arthritic conditions or even general paralysis.

But these articles usually contain only paragraph quotes about one fact revealed by the studies. They don't elaborate on control factors involved in such studies, and they don't reveal any variable which might have been introduced to gain results. But there is a documented case history involving nine Missouri cities, including Sedalia, which does dramatically show the beneficial effects of fluoridated water on permanent teeth.

The 1953 report appearing in a manual prepared by the Missouri Division of Health compares the incidence of decayed, missing or filled teeth in more than 3,000 Central Missouri children between 6 and 14 years old.

The cities involved were Fulton, Mexico and Columbia, designated as the high fluoride cities because of the 1.1 parts per million concentration of fluoride in their water supplies; Boonville, Jefferson City and Warrensburg, designated as middle fluoride cities with a .5 ppm rating; and Sedalia, Rolla and Chillicothe, low fluoride cities with an average .2 ppm rating.

These nine cities were chosen because of the geographic proximity, similar climates, homogeneous populations, and similar diets.

A DMF average (or the average of decayed, missing and filled teeth) revealed that six-year-olds in the low fluoride group, which included Sedalia, had an average incidence of nearly one affected permanent tooth. The middle fluoride DMF average for the same age group was .44 and the high fluoride DMF figure for six-year-olds was .30.

As children aged, the results of the study became even more obvious. By the ninth birthday, low fluoride group children had a DMF figure of 3.52, compared to 2.06 in the middle fluoride group and 1.12 in the high fluoride group.

Continuing to the end of the study scale, the 14-year-olds in the high fluoride group were found to have an average of less than two permanent teeth decayed, missing or filled; the middle fluoride group showed a DMF of nearly six; and the low fluoride group, including Sedalia, had an average of 9.40 permanent teeth either decayed, missing or filled.

The study concluded that the marked difference in the incidence of dental caries in the three control groups could be traced to the fluoride content in community water supplies. It showed that there were three to four times more permanent teeth attacked by caries in the low fluoride cities than in the high fluoride cities, and that 57 per cent of the high fluoride group had no cavities, while only 18 per cent of the low fluoride group could make such a claim.

Costs Are Low

The cost of fluoridating Sedalia's water supply would be slight, according to Water Department Manager Herb Taylor. In fact, the process could be accomplished without raising the department's allotment in the annual budget, Taylor believes.

He said that the city has already looked into the price of a volumetric dry feeder, required to introduce the powdery chemical into the water supply. Taylor said the cost of the feeder and installation would run about $2,500, adding that it would take approximately two months from the day the machinery is ordered until the dry fluoride is added to the city's water.

Taylor explained that the specific form of fluoride used here would probably be sodium silicofluoride, a chemical similar to the alum and chlorine presently used.

He added it would cost approximately 1 penny per thousand gallons of water to add fluoride to the city's daily supply of 2,500,000 gallons.

The water department manager said several chemicals are presently used in the city water supply. They are lime, to control the chemical acidity or alkalinity of the water, alum to insure proper settling of foreign particles, nuchar to control taste and odor, and chlorine which is used as a sanitary agent.

Taylor said the addition of a new dry feeder would not create any problem since extra feeder space was allowed for when the new plant was built.

From his viewpoint Taylor can see no

Democrats Hold Rally Wednesday

About 30 Democrats, including candidates for city and county offices, assembled in a classroom at Horace Mann elementary school Wednesday night for a Fourth Ward Democratic rally on behalf of City Council candidate Lee Garrison.

Garrison was the lead speaker at the gathering, which was presided over by committeeman Bill Yarboro. Garrison's speech centered around his background.

He stated friends had encouraged him to seek election to the City Council three to four years ago. According to Garrison, support mounted with time and he decided to enter the race for the Fourth Ward seat.

Garrison enumerated a long list of goals he favored, including: street improvements, better parks, "better recreation for all ages, better programs to combat the drug and other problems in the city," improved housing, schools, sanitation and storm sewers "where needed," better working conditions and a "living wage for all employees."

The former minister qualified his list of concerns by saying: "All of these must be kept within the limit of the revenue that the city receives."

"By not having access to or knowing the financial set-up of the city, it would be hard to say just what could be done about the things I have mentioned," Garrison said. He declined to make promises, but pledged to "look into" areas of concern, "because I believe in stretching the tax dollar as far as you can, so that we can get the most out of every dollar of revenue the city receives."

Garrison cited his 16 years of ministerial work, his 15 years of work as chairman of the Sheetmetal Workers Union at the Missouri-Pacific Railroad Shops and his 18 years as an official of the Junior Babe Ruth

Turkish Kidnapers, Three Hostages Die

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Police stormed a mountain village house Thursday and killed 10 Turkish kidnapers but not before the terrorists turned their guns on three foreign hostages and shot them to death, a government communique reported.

The hostages were a Canadian and two Britons, radar technicians who were working at a Turkish air force radar station when they were seized Sunday. One of the dead terrorists was Turkey's most wanted fugitive.

First government reports from the scene, the village of Kizildere, said all died in an explosion of ammunition in the house.

A government spokesman said the confusion about an explosion arose because the terrorists threw grenades at the police, who rushed the house wearing bullet-proof vests. The police threw in tear gas grenades.

The communique made no mention of casualties among the police.

The government announcement said the hostages were found shot in their heads with their hands tied behind their backs. It added that the three were killed before the terrorists opened fire as police closed in on the house.

Premier Nihat Erim sent messages of condolence to Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain and Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Canada's prime minister.

In London, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the British foreign secretary, issued a statement saying: "This senseless violence against innocent people is a terrible feature of the times in which we live."

Kizildere is a village of 100 houses in the Pontus Mountains, 60 miles south of the Black Sea town of Unye, where Canadian John Stewart Law, 25, and two Britons, Gordon Banner, 35 and Charles Turner, 45, were captured.

The terrorists, members of the Turkish

Peoples Liberation Army, kidnapped the technicians as hostages for the lives of three other leftist extremists condemned to death by a martial law court. This group kidnaped and murdered Israeli diplomat Ephraim Elrom in Istanbul last May.

They defied a commando battalion that had surrounded their hideout. They insisted they would release the kidnap victims only if they were given safe passage out of Turkey.

Interior Minister Ferit Kubat, who went to the village to take charge of the operation, refused to bargain.

Instead, a lawyer, Sener Sadi, was brought to Kizildere by helicopter from Unye where he was being held on a charge of aiding the terrorists.

He was sent into the house to tell the terrorists to give up and free the technicians because the government would not compromise.

The communique said Sadi's mediation effort was unsuccessful, indicating that he had emerged from the house before the shootout. But officials at the scene had reported he too was killed in what they said was the explosion.

Officials said among the dead terrorists was Mahir Cayan, Turkey's most wanted fugitive.

Cayan was involved in a similar showdown in Istanbul last June when he holed up in an apartment with an accomplice and held a 14-year-old girl as hostage. He was captured and wounded and the accomplice was killed.

Fireworks Explosion Kills Three Persons

BRIDGEWATER, Mass. (AP) — At least three persons were killed and 11 others injured Thursday when a series of explosions leveled buildings and ignited fires at a fireworks manufacturing plant.

Three bodies were removed from the charred rubble of Interstate Pyrotechnics Inc., about five hours after the initial blast. None of the injured was reported in serious condition.

Bridgewater Deputy Fire Chief Arthur Joyce said a building near the center of the nearly four acre complex exploded first, touching off blasts in other structures. Only a few of the some 20 wood, concrete and corrugated metal buildings were left standing.

Firemen moved in to hose down a propane gas tank on the blast site and a group of outlying wooden storage buildings that state Fire Marshall Joseph Snider said contained aerial fireworks bombs.

"This is very dangerous," he said. "We are wetting this area down—trying to control the fire, to keep these bombs from exploding."

He said many of the bombs were blown into an adjacent wooded area. "They may be wet now, but when they dry out they could explode," he said.

Police evacuated the area.

Snider said it was not known how many persons were at work in the area, but police said they understood 16 to 20 employees were at the plant at the time of the blast. Reports from some employees put the number at work as high as 50.

New Guerrilla Attacks

BELFAST (AP) — Guerrilla extremists mounted bomb and gunfire attacks in Northern Ireland Thursday, killing a British army explosives expert and a woman bystander. Two dozen civilians were wounded.

The new wave of violence erupted on the day the British Parliament legalized its takeover of the province and ordered in an extra 600 troops amid fears of Easter fighting.

The outlawed Irish Republican Army set off a wave of explosions from bombs planted in parked cars in three cities, virtually ruling out last weekend's talk of an armed truce during the British takeover.

One of the blasts in Lisburn, the town six miles south of Belfast that houses the headquarters of the British army in the province, exploded from a parked car near the city center, injuring 16 shoppers.

Other bombs exploded in Belfast and Londonderry.

Gov. Hearnes Signs Billboard Control Law

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's new billboard law was signed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Thursday after he was assured it would meet federal compliance requirements.

The bill, which has been one of the big issues of the 1972 legislature since last January, became law one day before the federal deadline for cutting off $11.5 million in federal highway aid funds. If it had not passed, another 10 per cent would have been cut every year until Missouri met the federal standards.

The governor said he had been assured by Robert L. Hyder, chief counsel for the Highway Department, that the U. S. Department of Transportation would accept the bill in its present form.

Opponents charged it was unconstitutional because it will require use of highway funds to tear down signs found to be illegal. The governor said determination of its constitutionality would be up to the state Supreme Court if and when a test case is brought.

Hearnes said he felt frustrated by the long legislative delay in passing the bill, since it was recommended by him in January, but he had become "resigned to the fact that democracy just works slowly."

Actually, the legislature has had the problem before it since 1966. A bill passed then was found inadequate by federal officials on several counts, especially because it gave county courts zoning powers. That provision was eliminated in the new law.

The availability of federal funds has given rise to consideration of rebuilding of the Old Covered Bridge, south of Sedalia near the city's water works, and a meeting is set for 1:30 p.m. Friday with state and county officials and an area property owner.

Rep. Joe Rains told The Democrat-Capitol he had learned from Joseph Jaeger, state director of parks, that money was available for building and maintaining the bridge.

However, Rains said, the project depends on the state obtaining a deed for the abutments on which the old bridge, which vandals destroyed by fire May 1966, rested.

One of these abutments is on county property and the other, on the south side of Flat Creek, is on land belonging to H. M. Anderson, Route 1.

The Pettis County Court has already indicated its willingness to go along with the idea, Rains said. One source indicated, however, that Anderson was opposed to the plan.

"You can do a lot of things out there at the park with a bridge. I had even thought about 'dozing off the north slope to the creek and covering it with sand to create a

Committee Slashes State Fair Request

"Very, very little," was one of the remarks made by State Fair Secretary W. C. Askew when asked how much could be done with $21,300 allowed by the Senate Appropriations Committee Wednesday, for the 1972-73 fiscal year period. Askew had requested $321,300 for capital improvements.

The requests Askew made were primarily for the repair and replacements of existing structures. He said that many buildings needed a lot of work done. "Most of the roofs on the buildings here are 20 years old and need to be repaired. I would say that the fair would suffer in the years to come," he said.

Included in Askew's list of repairs were: roofing of the swine barn, $22,000; repairs to the grandstand, $5,000; resurfacing of walkways, $10,000; expansion of the cattle barns, $24,200; replacement of the underpass for the racetrack, $36,000; a tile kitchen for the Youth Building, $5,000; improvements and repairs in electrical outlets for the camping area, $25,000.

Earlier the House had recommended a $300,000 figure for these projects.

The reduction in the committee allotment for the fair was included in general and substantial cuts in the House-passed capital improvements proposals but the committee expressed a hope the federal government would supply money for a maximum security facility for incorrigible juveniles.

The Senate committee added $3,619,834 it hoped could be acquired under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 for an intensive care facility for "hard-core hyper-aggressive juveniles."

House members searched for a way to finance such a center with state money but decided the state was in too difficult a financial shape to do that now.

The Senate committee also expressed a desire for construction of a proposed group camp for the handicapped at Babler State Park in St. Louis County.

The House had recommended only $202,300 for a start on the project but the Senate committee recommended $955,000 with the cost split between the Babler trust fund and the land and water fund.

These other substantial changes were made by the Senate committee:

The Division of Planning and Construction would get only $250,000 for improvements in the state buildings in Jefferson City. The House had recommended $1,040,000, including major repairs to the capitol.

Only $100,000 out of the conservation fund for improvements of existing conservation projects. The House had approved $2 million.

Consider Rebuilding Old Covered Bridge

The availability of federal funds has given rise to consideration of rebuilding of the Old Covered Bridge, south of Sedalia near the city's water works, and a meeting is set for 1:30 p.m. Friday with state and county officials and an area property owner.

Rep. Joe Rains told The Democrat-Capitol he had learned from Joseph Jaeger, state director of parks, that money was available for building and maintaining the bridge.

However, Rains said, the project depends on the state obtaining a deed for the abutments on which the old bridge, which vandals destroyed by fire May 1966, rested.

One of these abutments is on county property and the other, on the south side of Flat Creek, is on land belonging to H. M. Anderson, Route 1.

The Pettis County Court has already indicated its willingness to go along with the idea, Rains said. One source indicated, however, that Anderson was opposed to the plan.

"You can do a lot of things out there at the park with a bridge. I had even thought about 'dozing off the north slope to the creek and covering it with sand to create a sort of little beach for recreation," Rains said.

Friday's meeting between Rains, Jaeger, members of the County Court and Anderson is designed to explain to Anderson, in detail, what the state's proposal is, Rains said.

He added that construction and maintenance of the bridge would involve no added tax expense. The state's interest in the bridge plan apparently hinges on the fact that only three covered bridges remain in Missouri, Rains said.

Bad News For US In Trade Deficits

While the war on inflation has lately focused on domestic developments, Uncle Sam got some more bad news the other day about his deteriorating foreign trade position.

The Commerce Department reported Tuesday that the nation racked up its second worse monthly trade deficit in February, when the value of imports exceeded exports by $597.6 million. Figure in January's deficit, and 1972 isn't exactly shaping up as a banner year for foreign trade, with the two-month deficit standing at $916.4 million.

The bad news began to pile up last October, when the red ink totaled a whopping $821.4 million for that month alone. The U.S. finished off 1971 with its first trade deficit in 73 years.

February was the fifth consecutive month of trade deficits for the nation, a situation the Nixon administration hopes to help reverse by the recent devaluation of the dollar. One effect of this action will be to make U.S. goods cheaper abroad, but it will take some time for the effects of this to become noticeable.

This sudden reversal in what used to be a favorable balance of trade for the U.S. has come on with a vengeance, the result of many factors jelling at one time. As recent as four years ago the U.S. enjoyed a trade advantage of $1.1 billion.

All of this adds to the balance of payments problem confronting this nation, and further threatens the value of the dollar.

It is clear that our foreign trade picture must somehow be improved; left unattended it will prove to be a chronic impediment to ever setting the economy right again. The kind of problems that have plagued Great Britain since it lost its great balance of trade advantage several years ago are instructive in this regard.

Merry-Go-Round Chile Becoming Base Of Latin Subversion

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — In earlier columns, we quoted from internal memos to show how the International Telephone and Telegraph conglomerate and the Central Intelligence Agency plotted together unsuccessfully to block President Salvador Allende from coming to power in Chile.

We have now obtained secret CIA documents which explain why the CIA, at least, was anxious to prevent Allende's election. The cloak-and-dagger crowd feared he would permit the Communists to turn Chile into a base for stirring up revolution throughout South America.

The latest secret intelligence reports bear out the CIA's concern. These report that Cuban dictator Fidel Castro has turned his embassy in Santiago, Chile, into "the principal Cuban center for support of Latin-American liberation movements."

This Cuban liberation center allegedly "provides financial and logistical support and guidance to the subversive groups operating in other Latin American countries."

The CIA also charges that "President Salvador Allende through lesser government officials has apparently given his approval for Cuba to maintain contact with these subversive elements in Chile."

Castro has formed a special Directorate for Liberation whose mission is to foment Communist revolutions around the world. It is staffed, according to the CIA, by hundreds of tough, trained intelligence officers under the command of Manuel Pineiro Losado, who is known by the code name "Barba Roja."

The Latin American section is directed by a man known as "Ariel," whom the CIA identifies by two names he has used in the past, Juan Carretero Ibanez and Ruben Cabrera Marquez. From Havana, he directed the late Che Guevara's rag-tag guerrilla operations in Bolivia in 1968.

The chief of the liberation team in the Cuban embassy in Santiago, according to the CIA, is Manuel Martinez Galan, who goes by the code name "Manolo." He is a veteran Communist intelligence officer who is reportedly in charge of all clandestine activities in the Santiago embassy.

"The presence in Santiago of 'Manolo' and 'Ariel,'" declares a secret CIA report, "are indicators of the importance attached to the continued Cuban government interests and active support of the export of the revolution."

Castro used his embassy in Paris as "the principal center concerned with providing various types of support to Latin American liberation movements" until Allende allowed him to open an embassy in Santiago. "Communications between the Cuban officers in Santiago and guerrillas operating in other countries," says the CIA, "is accomplished by radio."

"On occasion an officer will be dispatched from Havana to make contact with one or more of the guerrillas. Explosives in the form of plastics are carried in false bottoms of suitcases by the traveling officers."

Footnote: The Cuban embassy supports various subversive groups throughout Latin America, but the CIA identifies as "the most notable" the notorious Tupamaro terrorists who operate in Uruguay.

Billionaire Howard Hughes' vintage plywood flying boat, the "Spruce Goose," is about to lumber into the news again. A team of General Services Administration officials have secretly visited the hangared monster to try to figure out what to do with it.

Although GSA owns the eight-motored giant, renting it to Hughes for about $800 a month, Hughes guards required the officials to sign in, then barred them from going inside the plane. They were kept 20 feet away on the grounds that maintenance work was in progress.

Resigned to Hughes' strange ways, GSA regional head Richard Laws complied. Laws sighed, "It's a beautiful thing" when he saw the air relic which is bigger overall than either the 747 or huge C-5A transport.

GSA is considering giving the ivory-colored behemoth, which Hughes test flew one time only, 25 years ago, to a federal, state or municipal museum. If no one will take it, GSA may sell it for a novel restaurant, as a low-speed air transport, or as a tourist attraction such as the London Bridge or the Queen Mary.

Thus, the Hughes book hoax controversy is finally stirring the government to dispose of the venerable seaplane; slumbering in its huge humidity-controlled hangar in California.

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, has confided to friends that he will vote firmly against elevating Richard Kleindienst to attorney general.

Gravel was dubious before the ITT hearings. Now, he says, he is convinced that Kleindienst is unsuitable as the nation's number one law enforcer.

Art Buchwald Sorting Out the Forgers

WASHINGTON — My friend Metterling has just returned from a three-month visit to the green hell of Brazil. He called me as soon as he got back and said, "I hope you saved me Life magazine — I want to catch up on the Howard Hughes autobiography."

Buchwald

"I don't know how to tell you this Metterling," I said, "but the Hughes autobiography is a forgery."

"Oh, what a pity. I was so looking forward to reading it once I got out of the jungle. What else is new?"

"Not too much. Jack Anderson printed a memo from an ITT lobbyist saying the company gave a $400,000 commitment to the Republicans."

"Fancy that. What did the Republicans have to say?"

"They said the memo was a forgery."

"Now, wait a minute. Do you mean to say that BOTH the Howard Hughes book and the Jack Anderson memo were forgeries?"

"It's hard to believe," I admitted.

"But why would ITT want to forge Howard Hughes' autobiography?"

"They didn't forge Howard Hughes' autobiography. The Clifford Irving's forged that."

"Then what did ITT forge?"

"ITT didn't forge anything. They said the memo purportedly written by Dita Beard was a forgery."

"Dita Beard?"

"Yes, you see she worked for ITT and her name was on a memo saying she had the White House in the bag for a $400,000 contribution to the Republican National Convention."

"What did Howard Hughes have to say to that?"

"Howard Hughes had nothing to say to that. He did loan $250,000 to Richard Nixon's brother to bail him out of a restaurant business in Whittier, Calif., years ago, but that was in the Irving book which was a forgery. Irving apparently got it from Noah Dietrich's book about Hughes, which happens to be true."

"I see," Metterling said. "Well, where does that leave Life magazine?"

"Life magazine revealed last week that the Justice Department allegedly intervened on behalf of two friends of President Nixon's in a campaign donation case in San Diego."

"Was this at ITT's behest?" Metterling asked.

"No, blast it," I said, trying to keep my temper. "ITT had nothing to do with that. ITT's only involvement with San Diego was the offer they made to finance the Republican convention. Other than that, ITT is blameless, except that there seems to be some story that they ganged up with the Central Intelligence Agency in Chile to defeat President Allende."

"I thought it was Nicaragua."

"No, Howard Hughes went to Nicaragua."

"Why would Howard Hughes go to Nicaragua if ITT was having trouble in Chile?"

"Because Hughes doesn't care what happens to Chile. You see, Hughes was forced out of the Bahamas after he blew the whistle on the Irvings and so he went to Nicaragua. But now he's in Vancouver."

"Well, who's in San Diego?"

"Nobody but the men Life magazine said the Justice Department covered up for."

"I see," Metterling said. "Why didn't the Republicans get the $400,000 to finance their convention in San Diego from Howard Hughes?"

"Because at that time Howard Hughes was living in Las Vegas and the Republicans didn't want to hold their convention in a town that has legalized gambling."

"Did anyone ask for a contribution from the Irvings?"

"That hasn't come up yet in Anderson's column but no one is ruling it out. Listen, I have to go now. Is there anything else you want to ask me, Metterling?"

"Yeah. What happened to the President's trip to China?"

"What trip?"

How 'Equal' Do Women Want to Be?

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — It was late on the afternoon of Wednesday, March 22, when the Equal Rights for Women amendment finally came to a vote in the Senate. Delaware's William Roth happened to be presiding.

Kilpatrick

The packed galleries broke into happy applause. It took several minutes of gavel-pounding to get things quieted down. After more than 50 years of unrelenting effort, proponents of the ERA had swept the field. By Thursday morning, Hawaii had become the first state to ratify. Half a dozen others since have leaped aboard. The ERA may well break the 100-day record set last year in ratification of the 18-year-old vote amendment. There is no army so irresistible, as they say, as an idea whose hour has come.

Very well. The amendment, by its own terms, will become effective two years after ratification. This would indicate an operative date in the summer of 1974. A prediction may be ventured: By the summer of 1976, the jubilation singing will have died; March 22 of 1972 will be denounced here and there as Black Wednesday; and you will be hearing anguished cries for repeal.

The amendment is unmitigated folly. It cannot be compared with the 19th Amendment, which in 1920 guaranteed that women should have an equal right to vote. The legal effect of that amendment was clear, crisp, and incapable of misunderstanding. In the case of the ERA, though thousands of pages of law review articles have been written about it, the legal effects are beyond calculation. Harvard's Professor Paul Freund, a great constitutional scholar, has said that the Equal Rights Amendment "will open a Pandora's box of legal complications," but the hoary allusion paints an inadequate picture.

What we are talking about, in terms of this amendment, is "equality of rights under the law." Such equality henceforth shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex. The phrase has a beautiful bell-like ring. Who would oppose equality of rights under the law?

Sen. Sam Ervin could — and he had the courageous assistance, at the last ditch, of Senators Bennett, Buckley, Cotton, Fannin, Goldwater, Hansen and Stennis. Mississippi's James Eastland was paired against the resolution. Time will prove their apprehensions and reservations well founded. They perceived that the ERA, as part of the supreme law of the land, necessarily must impose sexual equality by law upon a society that does not want sexual equality in fact.

Take one of the simpler legal complications. Under Social Security, women may retire at 62, men at 65. This distinction must now be obliterated. To achieve equalization by lowering the male retirement age would create serious social and economic consequences, and would play havoc with the actuarial soundness of the Social Security system. But to raise the women's age would set off political explosions.

The Senate debate heard much talk of compulsory military service for women. Once the ERA becomes effective, every 18-year-old girl will have to register for the draft. These young women then must be called into service under precisely the same terms and conditions now applied to men. This means combat duty; anything less would be constitutionally impermissible. As Hawaii's Senator Fong uneasily speculated, the privacy that might be accorded women, if any, "is uncertain."

Legal complications at the federal level, by comparison with those involved in state legislation, are models of simplicity. The Equal Rights Amendment overnight will abolish hundreds of protective statutes dealing with inheritance, marriage, child support, and industrial life. Some of these state laws are foolish; these laws might have been repealed through the normal legislative process. But the effect of the ERA will be to dump them all — rest periods, maternity leave, occupational limitations, the whole works.

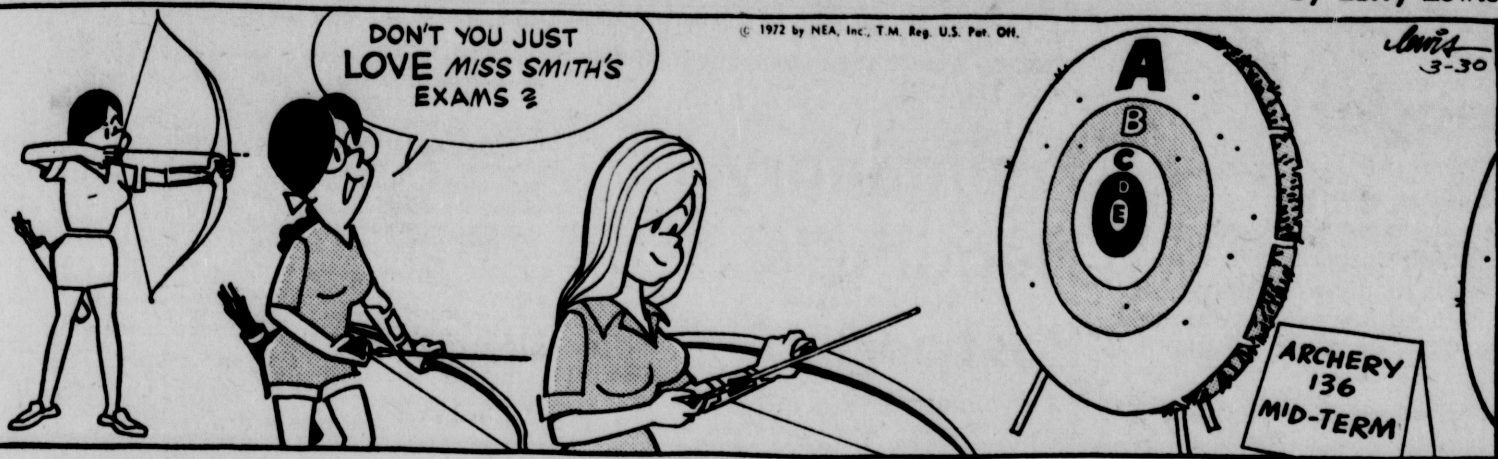

It is futile to object. The rush for ratification is on — Hawaii, Iowa, New Hampshire, Nebraska, Delaware, Idaho, Florida. Senator Ervin is no King Canute. The tide rolls in. But three or four years hence, when the impact of the ERA begins to be felt, a great many women will be finding that this beautiful equality is not so beautiful after all.

D'Artagnan, the best swordsman and bridge player in France, decided that while it was the duty of a musketeer to protect the king, this was one time that a lead of a king was called for. He placed the king of hearts on the table.

Porthos, sitting East, played the nine and D'Artagnan continued the suit. Porthos cashed the jack and ace.

The wily De Rochefort, sitting South, false-carded with the 10 and it was up to D'Artagnan to discard. He knew that Porthos would follow the instructions conveyed by his discard. What should he tell Porthos to do? It all depended on who held the seven of hearts. Could Porthos hold it? Very unlikely for two reasons. If Porthos held five hearts to the ace-queen-jack he would surely have overcalled and even if he hadn't overcalled he would have overtaken D'Artagnan's king with the ace if he held five hearts.

After working this all out carefully it was no trouble for D'Artagnan to drop the diamond deuce. Porthos led his last high heart and since De Rochefort had to ruff with one of dummy's high trumps the contract was doomed.

"Sacre Bleu!" cried De Rochefort. "From now on I will stick to duelling against you. You are far too good at bridge."

The family will receive friends from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday at the funeral home.

Attacks

Belleek. The army said it suffered no casualties but may have hit two gunmen firing from the Irish republic across the border.

Catholics in the north were reported planning massive marches in defiance of provincial security regulations.

Parades marking the 56th anniversary of the 1916 Easter Rebellion—which led to the partition of Ireland and emergence of the Irish republic—were scheduled for Belfast, Londonderry and other towns.

This stirred fears of clashes with Protestants, furious over the British takeover.

The parades could give William Whitelaw, Britain's new overlord of Northern Ireland, his first taste of the sectarian strife.

Whitelaw will rule the province by decree for at least one year under London's direct-rule plan, which suspends the provincial Parliament.

The British Defense Ministry announced it was sending in the extra troops from the Queen's Regiment only hours after the British Parliament overwhelmingly approved the takeover bill.

Farm Prices Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers received for raw products declined 2 percent in March but averaged 8 percent more than a year ago, the Agriculture Department reported Thursday. The decline was the first in the last six months.

The Crop Reporting Board said that contributing most to the decrease were lower prices for hogs, cotton, lettuce, celery, tomatoes, cattle and milk.

Higher prices for eggs and soybeans were partially offsetting.

Farm expenses remained unchanged from last month, but at the record high established in February. Expenses were 5 percent more than a year earlier, officials said.

The board said that lower average prices for food and tobacco and motor supplies offset generally higher prices for the other commodity groups.

Prices of all beef cattle averaged $32.40 per hundredweight, slightly below the all-time high mark of $32.60 set last month.

A year earlier cattle averaged $28.60 cents per hundredweight.

Hogs averaged $23.30 per hundredweight, compared with $25.70 in February and $16.90 a year earlier.

Corn prices averaged $1.10 per bushel, compared with $1.09 in February and $1.43 a year earlier.

A comparison of farm product prices and costs, expressed as a parity ratio based on a 1910-14 formula, was 72 percent in March compared with 73 percent in February and 70 percent a year earlier.

Under a 1967 formula the ratio was 97 percent in March, compared with 98 percent in February and 94 percent a year earlier.

Prices received by farmers averaged 120 percent of the 1967 base, and expenses 124 percent, compared with 122 percent and 124 percent in February.

Harrisburg Jury Begins Deliberations

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A federal jury began deliberations Thursday on government charges that the Rev. Philip Berrigan and six others plotted to kidnap presidential aide Henry Kissinger and destroy federal property.

Judge R. Dixon Herman of U.S. District Court told the panel of nine women and three men before giving them the case, "This is not a political trial. This is not a trial of the war in Vietnam."

The jury began its deliberations as the trial, which began Jan. 24, neared the close of its 10th week. The Harrisburg Seven trial is regarded as a test of the government's power to limit radical acts by means of federal conspiracy laws.

The jury took with it to its deliberations room more than 100 prosecution and defense exhibits. Included were copies of 24 letters exchanged between Berrigan inside the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary and his trusted lieutenant in the Catholic left antiwar movement, Sister Elizabeth McAlister.

Berrigan, 48, a gray-haired Roman Catholic priest, faces a maximum 50 years in federal prison if convicted on six counts in the indictment. He already is serving six years for destroying draft board records.

Sister Elizabeth, 32, could get 40 years on five counts. The others are liable to five years each on a single conspiracy count. They are the Rev. Neil McLaughlin, 31, the Rev. Joseph Wenderoth, 36, both priests; Anthony Scoblick, 33, a former priest, his wife, Mary Cain Scoblick, 33, an ex-nun, and Eghal Ahmad, 41, a Pakistani educator in this country on a resident visa. Ahmad is the only non-Catholic defendant.

The seven were charged with an escalating conspiracy—draft board raids to recruit followers, followed by a plot to blow up Washington's tunnel heating system and finally the planned abduction of Kissinger, the White House national security adviser.

The aim, the government said, was to call antiwar and antigovernment views to the attention of the public.

The name of FBI informant Boyd F. Douglas Jr. went into the record at the very outset of the trial. At its conclusion, his name appeared again, as Herman cautioned the jury: "It is not a trial of Boyd Douglas."

The defense had denounced the 31-year-old Douglas as a "liar, a scoundrel and a confidence man."

The prosecution argued that Douglas' story of conspiracy involving Berrigan and the others had stood the test of a grueling, two-week cross-examination by the defense.

Besides Douglas, the government presented 63 other witnesses before resting its case one week ago. The following day, the defense rested without calling any witnesses.

"You will draw no inference from the fact that these defendants did not take the stand," Herman admonished the jurors. "That is their right and privilege."

He told the jury the government has every right to make use of paid informants, but he cautioned that their testimony must be weighed with greater care than that of a normal witness.

The defense had suggested to the jury that Douglas may eventually be rewarded with money for his undercover FBI work and his trial testimony. And Herman directed the jury to consider whether the witness "was interested in the outcome of the case."

Purse and Cash Reported Stolen

Dorrian President, 444 West Saline, reported to police at 6 p.m. Wednesday that her purse and $22 in cash had been stolen while she was at work at Swift and Co., 226 West Pacific. Total value of the purse and its contents was set at $31.

She told police she discovered the purse was missing when she was about to leave work at 5 p.m.

Stipulation Is Told By ITT Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.'s financial pledge to San Diego would be dropped if the firm's Sheraton Harbor Island Hotel is not used as Nixon headquarters during the Republican National Convention, according to ITT President Harold S. Geneen.

Geneen said, however, any decision to void the commitment would be made by Howard James, president of the ITT subsidiary, Sheraton Hotels of America, which has three facilities in San Diego.

"I would think it (commitment) would be breached if the Sheraton Hotel is not made the headquarters hotel," Geneen told the Senate Judiciary Committee Wednesday. "But whether we would ask for our money back would be up to Mr. James. He sent the telegram making the commitment."

Baseball League as an adequate background for service on the council.

Chuck Stockstill, Democratic city chairman, launched an attack on Republican Jim Gwinn, Third Ward incumbent councilman, in what was a prelude to Thursday's Third Ward meeting.

Careful not to refer to Gwinn by name, Stockstill said some candidates in their advertising had claimed credit for the new fire station and the swimming pool in Centennial Park. Stockstill maintained former councilmen Robert Wells and Larry Englund had instituted these programs. Englund was defeated in an attempt to return to the council in the March 6 city primary. Wells is the Democratic candidate in the Third Ward.

Preliminary Hearing Is Postponed

A preliminary hearing for Frank Edward Walecki, Sedalia, was postponed Thursday when his attorney, George Miller, ruled himself ineligible to represent him.

It was explained that Miller was a Missouri assistant attorney general and that accepting of such a case would represent a conflict of interest.

No date has been set for another preliminary hearing, pending appointment of another attorney. Walecki remains in custody in the Pettis County Jail serving out a 90-day sentence for parole violation.
